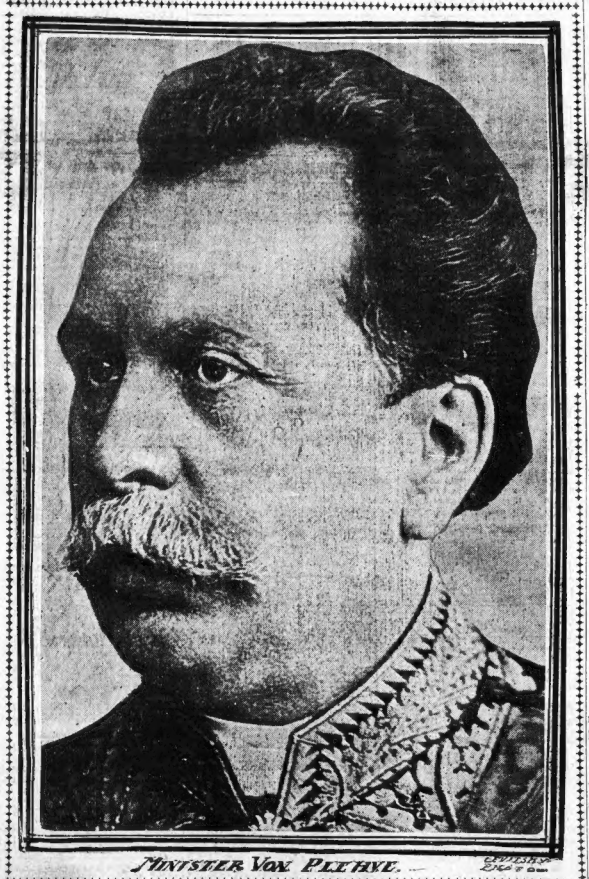
VON PLEHVE BLOWN TO PIECES, FIRST VICTIM OF DEATH PLOT!

VON PLEHVE, ASSASSINATED MINISTER OF INTERIOR.



MINISTER VON PLEHVE.

CZAR MARKED TO DIE BY MINISTER'S SLAYERS

St. Petersburg in Consternation Over Assassination of the Minister of the Interior----Dynamite Bomb Hurled at Carriage in Broad Thoroughfare Tore Vehicle and Its Occupants to Pieces.

Special Cable to Boston American.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 28.—The assassination of Von Plehve, Russian Minister of the Interior, has thrown the Russian capital into consternation. There is now no doubt, the police assert, that the assassination was the outcome of a revolutionist plot.

Von Plehve's name headed a list of those to be slain. This list did not originally include the Czar, as he was regarded as weak and amiable. It is now asserted that the Czar's name has been added to the list.

Extraordinary precautions for the protection of the sovereign and of public officials whose lives are believed to be in danger have been taken. Selected officers of the Imperial Guard surround the Czar's person. The Peterhof is heavily guarded by police and military.

VON PLEHVE SLAIN BY BOMB.

Von Plehve was assassinated while on his way to the Peterhof to make his weekly report to the Czar, about 10 o'clock this morning. A bomb was thrown, with deadly accuracy, while his carriage was passing through the Zabalansky Prospect, a broad thoroughfare leading up to the Warsaw railroad station.

BORDEN MAY TRIPLE OUTPUT, BREAK STRIKE

PLAN TO RUN GREAT FALL RIVER MILLS WITH THREE SHIFTS, 24 HOURS DAILY.

FALL RIVER, July 28.—An unexpected move on the part of M. C. D. Borden, the big mill owner, who did not sign the agreement entered into by the other manufacturers, who proposes to run his mills night and day, according to good authority, may break the strike.

It is declared that Mr. Borden will run three shifts of operatives. This will mean a tripling of the force required and will give employment to hundreds of the strikers.

Since the strike began people have been on the alert to learn what "Matt" Borden would do. He is recognized as the longest-headed cotton manufacturer in the business and the greatest friend the operatives of Fall River ever had.

Raised Men's Wages.

Once, when everybody else cut wages, he raised his. When every other mill was planning a cut on the ground that cloth was low-priced he went into the market, bought every yard of cloth in Fall River, forced the price up and averted trouble.

In one day Mr. Borden gave $100,000 to charity. Another day he gave $50,000. Again he gave a boy's club.

The operatives of Fall River call Mr. Borden's mills "The Holy City." They are twice as large as any other in Fall River. The corporation is capitalized for $2,000,000.

Out of the 2,000,000 spindles in the city he operates 394,288. Running on three shifts this is equivalent to 1,152,864 spindles, or more than a third of the city's capacity. He has 16,904 looms. The weekly payroll of this company is $80,000. Working three shifts it would be $90,000. The entire weekly payroll of Fall River is but $229,650.

It is believed among men who are close to Mr. Borden that this increase in production may go into effect before the last of next week.

In the past, when M. C. D. Borden has planned such a coupe, the owners of Fall River have either fallen over themselves to get under cover or suffered the worst of it. The mill man who informs the BOSTON AMERICAN of this believes Mr. Borden's

NATIONAL LEAGUE PARK, July 28.—Owing to an arrangement made between the two teams, the Philadelphia and Boston teams met for two games this afternoon, one of which was on the books to-morrow.

The sun's welcome warmth was a large factor in the outpouring of fans. There being no game on the other grounds and at bargain prices, they all flocked to the old National Park. It was by all the hottest day of the week, and it was just the afternoon that the enthusiasts like to get on the bleachers and fan away.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Among the passengers that arrived here to-day from Hamburg-American line's Deutschland were the American ambassador to Austria-Hungary, Bellamy Storer; the American ambassador to Germany, Charlemagne Tower; General A. D. Andrews, Adolph S. Ochs of the New York Times and H. Robinson, a representative of M. F. Plant on the racing schooner Yseult Ingomar.

BOY SHOT TO DEATH BY COMRADE OF 13

PITTSFIELD, July 28.—Patrick O'Brien, eighteen years old, was accidentally shot and killed by a thirteen-year-old friend, Thomas Magner.

The boys, with one other companion, were practicing with a revolver in the woods when the weapon was discharged, the bullet entering O'Brien's temple. Magner was arrested, but released on bail furnished by his father.

ANTI-IMPERIALISTS WANT WOMEN AT MASS MEETING

Desiring a great attendance of women to attend the meeting of Anti-Imperialists in Faneuil Hall next Monday evening, the committee in charge announced to-day that the galleries will be reserved for women and escorts until 7:45 p. m. The meeting is for the purpose of announcing that the Anti-Imperialists formally approve of the Democratic platform adopted at St. Louis, and among the speakers of the evening will be Bourke Cockran, Charles Francis Adams and Governor Garvin.

VON PLEHVE SLAIN BY DYNAMITE BOMB

ASSASSINATED AT WARSAW STATION

near the bridge spanning the circular canal. The bomb thrower must have known that the minister would pass the spot at that moment on his way to the station to take the train for Peterhof. He was favored by the heavy trafficain the street, which greatly impeded the minister's progress.

Von Plehve was always apprehensive of attacks on his life, and insisted always on being driven rapidly. The traffic made this impossible, however, and enabled his assassin to throw the bomb with accuracy. The assassin was captured almost immediately, and is under arrest. He is guarded with great secrecy, and is said to be a young Jew who refuses to give his name.

COACHMAN KILLED TOO.

The minister's coachman was killed instantly. Both bodies were terribly mutilated. A servant who sat on the box was desperately wounded. The carriage was shattered and the horses were so badly wounded that they dropped dead, after running a short distance with the front part of the vehicle.

At a late hour this afternoon fragments of the clothing worn by the minister and his coachman and pieces of the carriage still littered the street, which had been roped off and was guarded by militia and the police. An immense crowd pressed as close as they dared to the scene of the assassination.

The body of Von Plehve was taken to his magnificent city residence. A private mass was held in a chapel attached to the house, when the body was received, and another later in the afternoon. Two masses a day will be said until the funeral.

CZAR IS PROSTRATED.

The Czar was completely prostrated by news of the assassination of his minister. He trembled, turned white and sank into a chair, on the verge of a collapse. The Czarina also was greatly affected by the terrible news.

Various reports of the manner of the assassination are current. One says that the bomb was thrown by a man who was lying in wait in the cafe of the Hotel de Varsovie. Another says that the bomb was buried from a motor car in which were two men. One report says that two bombs were thrown.

TRIED TO HIDE TRAGEDY.

For a short time after the assassination an effort was made to keep the fact secret by the police. The crime, however, had been seen by too many persons, and thousands had gathered to learn the cause of the explosion. In a few minutes the word was passed from one part of the city to another.

Immediately the foreign representatives sent expressions of sympathy to the Government. After that the publication of the crime without details was permitted.

That the minister was on his way to the palace at that time, as was his custom on certain days about 2:30 o'clock, shows the assassin was aware of his habits to a certain extent. The police are working on this theory. Whether the crime was that of a Nihilist or grew out of the war, being the work of some person who has become crazed over the death of some relative in the Far East, has not been determined.

The hotel de Varsovie, in front of which the assassination occurred, is a short distance from the St. Petersburg terminus of the Warsaw railway. M. Plehve was passing the hotel in his carriage, according to the first report, when a man suddenly rushed out of the cafe attached to the hotel.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

The man hurled a bomb into the minister's carriage. There was a terrific explosion, which shattered all the windows in the vicinity. The minister and his coachman were instantly killed, and the carriage and horses were shattered to atoms.

The body of M. Plehve was terribly mutilated. His left arm and both legs were torn off. According to this first report the bomb-thrower was immediately arrested, in spite of the terrible confusion. The boulevard was crowded with men and women at the time, and the excitement was intense.

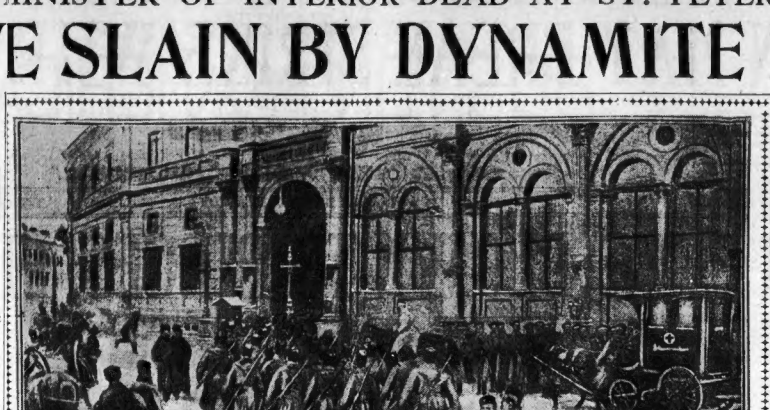
Another report has it that two persons were arrested. This report states that M. Plehve was approaching the station in a carriage, when a motor car drove up with two persons in it. Of these one was an officer with the uniform of the Minister of Ways and Communication, and the other wore morning dress.

As the motor passed M. Plehve's carriage, one of the occupants threw a bombing front of the horses. It exploded and several bystanders were injured, but none were killed as at first supposed.

BODY BLOWN TO PIECES.

The Minister of the Interior and his coachman were so mutilated that fragments of their bodies had to be collected and carried to the Minister's residence in a cushion cover. After the explosion the motor car stopped and both occupants were arrested. Their identity is not yet known.

Yet another report says that two bombs were thrown, one from the restaurant and the other from the motor carriage.



RAILWAY STATION IN ST. PETERSBURG NEAR WHICH MINISTER VON PLEHVE WAS ASSASSINATED TO-DAY.

Jews thus thrown out of work and their families to be expelled from St. Petersburg. A deputation of white-haired Jews knelt before Plehve and besought mercy. A second deputation of weeping Jewish women also implored pity.

Plehve is reported to have driven them off with harsh replies. The 1,000 Jews thus ruined are said to be in a desperate mood.

ASSASSINATION JUSTIFIED

BERLIN, July 8.—The conventional newspaper opinion justifies the assassination of M. Plehve. The Tageblatt, for example, characterizes the deed as the "execution of a criminal guilty of a series of crimes against humanity."

FRANCE SENDS CONDOLENCE

PARIS, July 28.—President Loubet, as soon as he heard of the assassination of M. Plehve, telegraphed to the Czar expressing his personal condolences and the general horror of France over the crime.

Foreign Minister Delcasse immediately called at the Russian embassy and had a long private interview with M. Nielsdef, the Russian Ambassador.

OVER 30-FOOT BANK IN AUTO; POPE ESCAPES

BOSTON MAN AND PARTY HAVE CLOSE SHAVE ON ST. LOUIS RUN.

Harold L. Pope of this city, son of Col. Albert A. Pope, was pitched down a thirty-foot embankment in his auto with a party of Boston friends while approaching Utica, N. Y., on the long-distance run to St. Louis. The auto turned two somersaults.

The occupants of the car escaped with slight bruises. They hauled the auto back to the road and pushed on to Utica, arriving there in time to register with the rest of the touring party.

The accident was caused by the car skidding as it was running at ten-mile speed along a road skirting the top of the embankment. The road was muddy, and the driver wrenched his steering gear on the highway. The car turned so suddenly that Mr. Pope had no chance to get it under control.

Everybody in the car jumped as the big machine went over the banking. As they struck the slope and rolled down to its foot the car plunged along with them, fortunately not hitting anyone. It turned completely over twice and brought up at the bottom with a sprung axle.

President Whipple, of the Massachusetts Automobile Club, managed to get into a three-foot ditch with his sixty horse-power Peerless and five friends. They were E. F. and Charles E. Scott, R. B. Wasson, Kenneth Brooks and Gus Bentings. No one was hurt, but they had to get a block tackle to pull the car back into the road.

KUROPATKIN HIT; RUSSIAN LOSS 10,000

LONDON, July 28.—The Tien-Tsin correspondent of the Evening Star reports that General Kuropatkin was wounded in the shoulder during the battle at Taoli-Chao, July 24. Another general was killed. The Russians, according to the correspondent, lost 10,000.

PLEHVE HATED RUSSIAN TYRANT

ST. PETERSBURG, July 28.—M. Plehve was appointed to the office of Minister of the Interior on April 18, 1902, and succeeded D. Sipiaguine, who had been assassinated a few days previously. M. Plehve has never let an accusation pass without expressing his hatred of the Jews, and as a result there was many point to take his life.

Previous to his appointment as Minister of the Interior, he was Secretary of State for Finland, and ruled with an iron hand. It was while he held this post that he gained the scornful hatred which has kept his life in constant danger during the last years of his life. It was the point of view whenever the Nihilists of Russia had a scheme for assassination on hand, it has been said that Plehve's name, next to the Czar's, led the list to be put out of the government forces wished put out of the way.

PERSECUTED THE JEWS.

M. Plehve's opposition to the growth of Semitism in Russia has been even more apparent than ever since the outbreak of the war between Japan and Russia. Despite the confusion incident to the war he has carried out his task of defending the autocracy against attacks at home. His favorite methods of prevention, the persecution of the Jews, were carried out with redoubled vigor. The number of petty measures of restriction against the hated Israelites were multiplied, and the chief Jewish organ was suspended for three months on account of an article in which the condition of the Jews was described as intolerable.

Fresh modes of persecution were devised, among these being the compulsion of heads of Jewish families to go to the front, despite the fact that their departure meant the entailment of privation and even starvation on the helpless ones left behind.

Perhaps the most serious charge in this connection ever made against the minister was that he was to a great degree by his actions against the Jews responsible for the massacre of Jews at Kishineff some months ago. If in fact, when the facts in the matter were brought to his notice, he made a pretense of securing the punishment of those directly responsible for the massacre, but made the investigation a hollow one, no one high in authority being brought to justice.

DESPOT SINCE THE WAR.

Since the war broke out M. Plehve's power has been almost that of a despot, and his position so secure that little short of a revolution could dislodge him. He appointed the local governors, and these, under his direction, became practical czars of their districts.

He did not even hesitate to rebuke the Empress herself. Several of the local councils, or zemstvos, joined their subscriptions with that of the Empress for the aid of the Red Cross work.

The Empress sent their elective bodies letters of thanks. Von Plehve, angry that any elective body should be recognized, indignantly reported that the other zemstvos join in the subscriptions.

Nor have the Jews been the only object of the severity. The students of universities, in his opinion, were becoming too strong and assertive, and his method of repression was to lessen even further the bonds of the orderly ones. For the successful carrying out of these schemes the hold in of the revolutionary classes, Plehve and his supporters went so far as to favor a continuation of the Japanese war, no matter what the reverses of Russian arms. He believed that so long as the war continued he would be able to suppress these revolutionary tendencies, and his power would correspondingly become greater. There is little question he was the most cordially hated man in the empire.

FORTY YEARS IN PUBLIC LIFE.

Von Plehve, who was sixty-five years old, has been in public work for more than forty years. His first prominent post was that of public prosecutor at Warsaw in the early seventies. Polish nationalism was at its height at the time and he threw himself into the work of dowsing this with a vigor which has always characterized this work. He fast became too big for his position and he was soon called to the capital and was appointed chief of secret police department by the late Czar Alexander II.

When the late Czar was assassinated Von Plehve became more ardent than ever in his hatred of the Nihilists, and the next few years saw the reorganization of the secret police by him until it became the powerful organization it is to-day.

In 1884 he became under secretary in the Department of the Interior. Here his work of suppressing any kind of liberalism was more pronounced than ever.

About three years ago he was appointed Minister for Finland, where he added to his laurels as an active zealot in the work of exterminating everything opposed to the Government.

MUZZLED THE PRESS.

It was not till 1902, when he was appointed Minister of the Interior, that Plehve's name became known to any great extent outside of Russia. One of his first acts was to assail the press, and never in the history of Russia has newspaperdom been so thoroughly muzzled.

Plehve is reported to have declared that he left Jews and both legs were torn off. According to this first report the bomb-thrower was immediately arrested, in spite of the terrible confusion. The boulevard was crowded with men and women at the time, and the excitement was intense.

Another report has it that two persons were arrested. This report states that M. Plehve was approaching the station in a carriage, when a motor car drove up with two persons in it. Of these one was an officer with the uniform of the Minister of Ways and Communication, and the other wore morning dress.

As the motor passed M. Plehve's carriage, one of the occupants threw a bombing front of the horses. It exploded and several bystanders were injured, but none were killed as at first supposed.

Yet another report says that two bombs were thrown, one from the restaurant and the other from the motor carriage.

AMERICANS DEMAND ARABIA INDEMITY

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The Portland Milling Co., by John H. Mitchell, its attorney at Portland, Oregon, this morning demanded indemnity from Russia through the State Department for the seizure of the flour cargo of the Arabia of the Hamburg-American line, clearing from Portland and bound, it is stated, by the owners, not for a Japanese port, but for Hong Kong.

Mr. Mitchell's protest was by telegraph. Later oral protests were made by Messrs. Maxwell Evarts and D. A. Chambers, attorneys in the same interest.

It is stated the State Department has cabled the protest to the American embassy at St. Petersburg.

RED SEA CRISIS IS OVER, SAYS BALFOUR

LONDON, July 28.—Premier Balfour announced in the House of Commons to-day that the acute stage of the Red Sea incidents had passed and that the Russian volunteer vessels would be withdrawn.

Referring to the passage of the Dardanelles by the volunteer fleet as commercial vessels and their subsequent transformation into belligerent vessels, the Premier said Great Britain took the strongest possible exception to that course, and the Russian Government met us in this matter. I will not say in general principle, but with regard to this particular incident."

He added that Great Britain had earnestly protested against the sinking of the Knight Commander as contrary to the accepted practices of nations.

REPARATION PROMISED.

The Publishers' Press correspondent is officially informed that Foreign Minister Lansdowne has received satisfactory assurances from Russia that full satisfaction will be given Great Britain in the matter of the steamer Knight Commander, which was sunk by the Vladivostok cruisers on Sunday.

The Premier continued: "There are other questions not connected with these incidents which must give rise to some discussion and anxiety. We hold that it is improper that on the authority of a captain of a cruiser goods alleged to be contraband should be taken from a merchant ship. The proper course would be to take a vessel reasonably suspected to port for trial by a prize court."

With regard to the Knight Commander Mr. Balfour said:

"We earnestly pressed our views on the Russian Government, and have a strong impression that they will give orders to prevent the recurrence of unfortunate incidents of this character. I hope this will be the case, and feel confident it will.

"I have stated what I believe to be the duties of belligerents, but there are also duties incumbent upon neutrals which must be borne in mind by the ship owners of this country.

Reparation Promised.

Count Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, informed Lord Lansdowne this morning that if Russia had committed a wrong she was ready and willing to make full reparation, but before any action could be taken in the Knight Commander case the Russian government must have the opportunity of receiving the report of the commander of the Vladivostok squadron.

Lord Lansdowne was not disposed to unduly press the matter, and promised to wait a reasonable time.

SALEM PLANT HAS $4,000 FIRE

The plant of the Locke Regulator Company at North Salem was damaged by fire to-day to the extent of $4,000, and it was feared at one time that the whole plant would be destroyed. The fire started near the furnace and spread rapidly. A general alarm was sent in. The firemen succeeded in confining the flames to the building in which they originated. The brass foundry was practically destroyed and much of the material damaged.

Boston capital is interested in a $2,000,000 trolley deal in Rhode Island, whereby it is proposed to merge through local bankers the Bristol County Street Railway with the Middletown & Bussards Bay Street Railway Company, both in the hands of a receiver. It is proposed to pay $1,000,000 floating indebtedness and organize a new company under the name of the Southeastern Electric Companies

PERSECUTED JEWS BY HIS LAST ACT

BERLIN, July 28.—Prominent Jews here have received information of M. Plehve's last administrative act, which was the persecution of measures of relentless Jew baiting. He decreed the suppression of four Hebrew newspapers published in St. Petersburg, thus throwing out of employment 300 Jews, with 1,200 others dependent on them. Not content with this, he ordered the

MODEST HERO; SAVES A GIRL

Through the heroism of a man who declined to give his name, Hazel Severance, of No. 51 Webster street, Somerville, was rescued from drowning in the Mystic River. The young woman went overboard from Wellington Bridge. Her screams as she struck the water were heard by the man—the only traveller on the bridge. He plunged overboard, seized the girl, and, with the assistance of Drawtender Leahy, brought her ashore.

Mr. Leahy took the half hysterical girl to her home. She said that she had heard that her father had been seriously injured in Boston, and the thought of it seemed to make her unaccountable for what she did. She didn't remember how she came to be in the water.

Miss Severance is seventeen years of age, and remarkably pretty.

85 IS TO-DAY'S HEAT RECORD

Boston is having a tough time to-day fighting temperature and humidity together. It's hot and sticky at the same time, a combination to bring heat prostrations. At 11 o'clock the temperature was 85.

"It'll probably get up to 85 to-day," says the weather man.

The humidity is 82, twelve points higher than normal.

A light south wind gives little relief, as it barely stirs the heavy air. The atmosphere seems dead.

The weather man promises all the fair weather we want but he gives little hope that it will be cooler, except in the night hours.

The masks that are given away each week with the SUNDAY BOSTON AMERICAN have become enormously popular. Next Sunday there will be a new orangoutang mask, one of the best of the series. There will also be a "dolly" cut-out.

Miss Harriett Hemingway Covelle and William Carrick were married by the Rev. John L. Withrow, D. D., pastor of Park Street Church, at the bride's home, No. 79 Westland avenue. Miss Rena Spencer Covelle, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The best man was Edward Trowbridge, of this city. Mr. Carrick, the bridegroom, is a jeweller, and a member of the Park Street Club. The couple will be at home after October 1 at No. 79 Westland avenue.

SUES HUSBAND FOR $40,000.

PITTSBURG Pa., July 28.—Mrs. Martha Roseberg has sued her husband, William, for $40,000, said to be due her on an agreement made before she was married. She alleges that he was to pay her the interest on $100,000, as long as he lived, at 6 per cent.

HOT WEATHER ADVICE FOR ALL

A chill from exposure to night air or sudden change of temperature will often retard circulation and digestion, causing summer colic. The shock to the system from drinking ice-water often produces the same effect. That's why it has repeatedly been written never to drink ice-water unless Sanford's Ginger has been added. Sanford's quickens the circulation, centers the blood at the surface and promotes digestion. A timely dose after a chill will prevent summer ills and break up a cold. Be sure you get Sanford's, always healthful.

FOR THE SLEEPLESS

When the harmful habit of taking drugs to induce sleep is formed, there is usually increased nervousness. Give rest and healthful, natural sleep will follow a cup of ginger tea made from the genuine Sanford's Ginger, always healthful. Tell the dealer you want Sanford's, for thirty years the standard of purity, flavor and strength.

GINGER FRAPPE

This is a most delicious, cooling, satisfying and healthful hot weather drink: Some cracked ice, sugar, half a teaspoonful of Sanford's Ginger and a dash of lime juice. Try it, and be sure you get Sanford's, always healthful.

COLD TEA, LEMON AND GINGER.

Cold tea, to which has been added the juice of a lemon and a little Sanford's Ginger, is a most grateful and comforting drink.

EVERY DAY ILLS
Quickly cured by Sanford's Ginger, always healthful. It should be kept on hand to ward off summer ills.

A lockout for nine weeks is the retaliatory measure that the mill owners threaten to adopt against the 28,500 men, women and children strikers.

This statement was made to a reporter of the BOSTON AMERICAN by one of the prominent mill treasurers of the Spindle City. He spoke with grim determination in his voice. He declared that the strikers must come back at the proposed cut in their wages or stay out until Oct. 1.

Should the mill representative's assertion prove true it would mean a loss to the owners for expenses that they must meet, whether the mills run or not for the nine weeks, of $250,000. It would mean a loss in pay earned by the operatives of $1,750,000.

Mill Owners' Stand.

This is the position at this time of the mill owners as voiced by the treasurer:

"This whole matter has resolved itself into a question of finance. To continue work over the old wage scale means a loss. We prefer to close the mills rather than to have them run at a loss.

While the strikers are making far-reaching preparations to withstand any steps that the mill owners may see fit to establish, they do not believe that the mills with their millions of capital invested, will be allowed to remain idle such a long time.

"Such action," said President John Golden, "would prove the utter incompetency of the men who are at the head of the mills, and would result in the stockholders making such a persistent investigation that there would be a much-needed lopping off of heads.

Mills Making Money.

"The men who talk this way forget that there are mills running right now in Fall River that have not made any cut in the wages, and they are making money, too. That is a point that it will be pretty hard to explain to stockholders who invested their money in the mills to get a return and not to furnish jobs for a few friends."

Some of the mills, it is known, are now sorry that they were led to sign the agreement. Means of getting away from it are now being considered. It is believed that there will be a break in the agreement before many days if it is possible to get around the thirty days' notice that it is provided should be given.

Appeal to All Unions.

An appeal has been sent to the unions of the whole country, which embraces a membership of 2,000,000 people, for help. In this appeal it is pointed out that if the Fall River strike fails it will result in a cutdown of wages in all of the other cotton manufacturing cities of the country and prove almost a deadly blow to unionism.

The Textile Council held a meeting today at which twenty-five men were appointed to travel through New England and the South and solicit help to make the strike a success.

STRIKERS HOPE; OWNERS DIVIDED

By J. Frank Davis.

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, July 27.—A considerable change has come over the spirits of the Spindle City mill workers during the past twenty-four hours. Yesterday morning they awoke with resolution, determination, unbounded confidence in the justice of their cause—but Despair. When they put out their lights and sought their beds last night their resolution was unbounded, their determination was unchanged, their confidence in their cause was unshaken, and the dark and gloomy shadows of Despair had been dispelled by a bright white ray of sentiment that keeps the heart from breaking when things are at their worst—Hope. For the ranks of the mill owners are threatened with a defection that will mean for them a lost cause. Four of the corporations in the manufacturers' agreement are involved in a difference between managers and stockholders, and if the stockholders win their point they will secede from the association and open their doors to the strikers at the old living wages.

You can see what this would mean. To paraphrase, "When corporations fall out, workingmen have their chance."

This ray of hope is but a glimmer, but the darkness has lightened perceptibly. If the seed of discord sown by the dissatisfied stockholders, not interested, perhaps, in the ethics of labor troubles but very sincerely interested in any movement that cuts down their dividends, should take root and grow, the wage cut would be withdrawn, the notices would come down, and the stand of the allied manufacturers would collapse like a pricked balloon.

Reasons for Rumor.

There are several reasons why this reiterated rumor seems plausible—that the stockholders of the Arkwright, Davis, Dawol and Reconnet corporations are bringing pressure to bear on their directors and treasurers to withdraw from the manufacturers' agreement. In the first place business has been good in these mills. It is not easily apparent to the men whose stock has paid dividends regularly why those dividends should cease because some other corporations have not been so fortunate. These mills make a special line of goods, for which there is a continued demand, and in which there is less successful short-time competition than in some others. Then they resisted attempts to induce them to join the movement, and it is pretty well understood that they were clubbed into the combine with threats and cajoled with promises that there wouldn't be any strike—that the operatives, impoverished by months of short hours, would submit to the reduction, as they had done before.

The turning of the worm, you see, did not enter into the calculations.

Now the strike is on. These mills have tried hard to run, and failed miserably. They have many contracts on hand which they cannot execute if the shutdowns continue. And, on top of it all, they find the strikers absolutely determined, orderly and otherwise disappointing, funds flowing into the operatives' treasuries and every prediction of those who forced the strike unverified.

Pocketbooks Touched.

I do not know anything about the personality of these stockholders. Maybe their hearts would never have been touched. But their pocketbooks—Ah! That is a different matter. So they are working on their directors, to get them back out.

A man closely in touch with large business interests in the city, a man, it might be said, who has a direct interest in the strike, and no reason for wishing the strike ended, except the benefits Fall River business generally, was my authority to-day for the statement that this "cutting and trimming" on the part of the stockholders was a fact.

"As put to me," he said, "their feeling is that if they had the agreement to go into again they wouldn't say what they want to get out."

So it may be that selfish business interests will do in Fall River what justice, and mercy, and pity, and reason, and reason, and arbitration could not bring about. The lure for profits, which began the war, may be the force that will end it.

But let no one count on that because of the seriousness of this situation to-day, of the want on the part of many, and the real privation in the tenements, because this pay of hope has shone. Remember, it is hope of victory, not victory itself; the impending shadow, perhaps, but not the substance.

An official at the Arkwright Mill gave me his word yesterday that at that corporation had not decided to withdraw from the agreement. If it voted on to-day, it would be the 28th of August before the mill could take the notices from its doors. Each of the thirty-three corporations in the alliance has bound itself to give the others thirty days' notice before withdrawal. That means, unless the manufacturers give in as a whole, at least a month more of idleness under the most favorable conditions, providing, which looks hardly probable at the go to pieces and rush for cover at the first notice of a break.

A month of idleness. A month of finding food for the hungry, shelter for the homeless. A month of struggle against want. A month of ploughing and scraping to exist on the limited funds the union can pay for strike benefits. This is the outlook that is horrible to-day.

Sympathy Everywhere.

I never saw such common sympathy in a strike. The sentiment—except "on the hill," and not more than 2,000 live there—is as nearly unanimous as human sentiment can be. With thousands of dollars from merchants, with hundreds from provident workingmen, with a former Fall River property owner offering soup for 2,500 children daily as long as they need it (to be dispensed by the Salvation Army), with unions elsewhere sending in their contributions, with the great labor centres of the country planning to send money as well as sympathy, with the sporting people of Southeastern Massachusetts (the boxers and athletes) planning to give their services for a monster strike benefit—the situation is unparalleled.

Still the exodus continues to Rhode Island mill towns, to the cities where able-bodied men may find work, to Lowell and Lawrence—but principally to Canada.

These French-Canadians are going for a visit in some cases, for all time in many. Their experience this last winter and spring has been sad and depressing to many who came here last fall looking for the fortune and happiness that the natives of old Quebec always seem to expect to find in "the States."

The town is quieter now. There are less people walking about the streets, as the novelty of the holiday has worn off. Since Tuesday morning there has been no disturbance due to the strike and neither an arrest nor occasion for one.

Record Is Creditable.

Fall River should be proud of this record. The operatives could do nothing to help themselves more in the eyes of the world at large than to refrain from disorder. Of course, there are mutterings. A feint stomach seldom begets a contented heart. But the advice of the leaders has been heard and heeded. They have allowed no public occasion to pass without urging peace.

Before two thousand weavers yesterday afternoon, President John Golden, of the United Textile Union of America, made a plea of temperance. He counselled, as he has daily, that every operative should keep away from the places where disorder might arise; should commit no act that would give the workers' enemies a chance to attack.

The strikers listened to his words with earnest attention. When he had finished and the applause that followed the cessation of his rugged, hearty voice had faded away they passed this motion by a shout so loud it could be heard in the street:

"Resolved, That this Weavers' Union denounces the actions of all persons who have maliciously destroyed property in this city as unworthy of the members of a union and injury to the cause of organized labor."

Thus John Golden, Fall River and the rest of the world received their answer.

CONGRESSMAN SAYS "LET STRIKE ALONE"

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, July 28.—Congressman William S. Greene has issued a written statement as to the situation for the BOSTON AMERICAN. He is one of the best posted of Fall River citizens. He was mayor for six years, was twice postmaster, was general superintendent of Massachusetts prisons for four years, and has been Congressman from this district since 1898. This is his statement:

By William S. Greene.

As I see it the Fall River strike situation must be allowed to stand and settle. Any attempt to force a conference now would be futile. Yet a conference must eventually come and more than one, and when the parties to the controversy soften, which in history they always do in time—a little time, I hope—a mediating hand will bring about an understanding.

The unfortunate differences of opinion between the operatives and manufacturers of this city present a problem of a nature that is unusual, even in the category of strikes.

Both Sides Determined.

The question whether business acumen has always been displayed by manufacturers has not, in my judgment, an immediate bearing. The stern facts are that the manufacturers declare their determination to enforce a reduction, while the operatives are equally determined to resist the same. Either side possibly can offer an argument absolutely convincing in the absence of the other's story. A long struggle is promised.

In other times such differences have been adjusted in conferences. There is enough wisdom and broad mindedness left to repeat this. I am not prepared to believe that brains are lacking in this community. And still I feel that the situation must be let alone for a little while.

The unprejudiced lookers on might think that a settlement had not been sufficiently tried here.

Unfair to Fall River.

But he would also agree that it is a bit unfair to make Fall River bear the entire burden in this respect.

Manufacturers in other textile centres are glad to see Fall River mills idle because it improves their market. Fall River manufacturers realized this in advance.

A man who could make daylight show in the situation would attract attention.

DESTITUTE STRIKERS NUMBER THOUSANDS

Special to the Boston American.

FALL RIVER, July 28.—"We know that hundreds of families are in imminent need in Fall River to-day, and we believe that the destitute number thousands."

This was said by Adjutant E. L. Crosby, in charge of the local Salvation Army Corps, at the new barracks on Bedford street.

"You can see that we are peculiarly situated to know the feelings and privations of the laboring people. One can find all sorts of instances at such times as these, but the training of the Salvation Army lads and lassies enables them to feel the pulse of poverty with every changing symptom. The needy come to us if we do not go to them.

Time to Act.

"The time has come when the Army must move. Fortunately we have means for making a beginning. C. T. Sherer's agent will be here to-day, and will assist me in opening a soup kitchen by to-morrow, in which the little ones in need of food, or whose families are on shortened circumstances, can get their rations.

"Money goes a great way at a cent a bowl for savory food, and if the citizens at large respond to our appeal none of the city's young shall starve."

Sacrificing Already.

The weavers have voted to take no stoppage pay until August 8. Members say: "Let us make sacrifices at the beginning."

The weavers have denounced all acts of vandalism during their strike.

Superior Officer Sullivan says:

"I know all about mills and have worked in them. As a member of the Fall River police I have studied the criminal situation in every strike here and elsewhere for many years. Fall River strikers are the best on the surface."

BURGLAR ROBS HOUSE WHILE FAMILY SLEEPS

A second-story man relieved the family of Henry Male of money and valuables while they slept at their home, No. 1 Barbia street, Jamaica Plain, at an early hour this morning. The burglar climbed up to a veranda, and, opening a window on the second floor, found the sleeping rooms of Mr. Male. Securing his trousers, he got $30 out of a pocket. In the dining room the thief got about $100 worth of

MILL GIRLS DRESS WELL ON THEIR MEAGRE PAY

With Economy and Taste They Get Outfit for Less Than $10.

By Beulah Dickinson.

FALL RIVER, July 28.—"Why, it's getting so in Fall River that you can't tell a mill girl from one of the girls on the hill."

This remark is attributed to the wife of one of the wealthiest mill owners here who lives in a mansion on the hill.

"Something to wear" is the eternal feminine want, but the mill girls seem to have solved the problem effectually. They appear about the city neatly and prettily gowned.

How can the mill girls dress as well as the "hill girls" do upon their small wages? To answer this question satisfactorily I tried to get a position as clerk in a department store that has a mill trade. It was useless to try for a position as a regular clerk, for the season is dull; trade has fallen off about three-fourths. So I went to the manager and asked for a position, offering my services in order to wait on the work people.

He readily fell in with the plan. My counter was the "ready to wear" department. People aren't buying much these days [illegible] in the way of pretty clothes. After what seemed a long, weary wait a woman came in and bought an imitation of a linen skirt. I'm sorely afraid a woman in real linen saleswoman for when she asked me if it was real linen I told her it was. She knew it any way, surely, and asked me absent-mindedly if the skirt cost 79 cents.

"Have you noticed in the papers," she asked, "that there may be some of the mills that will start up Monday without the cutdown? I do hope so, and then that will break this awful strike."

Some pretty-dressed girls came in. They looked longingly at the 10-cent "gold" underwear buttons and some plan on the counter across the way. They admired the "ready to wear" down on the next counter, but they bought a 39-cent shirt waist.

A chipper, dark, little French woman scurried by, followed closely by her husband.

They looked over some wrappers and working coats. Briskly they walked from counter to counter. They asked me the price of a black cotton shirt waist. And I told them a dollar will have to suffice them. "Too much," sputtered the man, and they stepped out, stopping at the drinking fountain to drink. Water, at least, was cheap. Women swarmed like bees around the remnant counter near the door. There cheap prices of waistings sold readily. The salesgirl near me, in a blue shirt-waist suit, came over for a chat. I asked her if she liked the mill patronage.

"I would much rather wait on a mill girl," she explained, "than to wait on any rich lady. A mill girl knows what she wants to buy and just her expense limit. If she wants a twenty-five cent garment she tells me at once. But some ladies make me angry. They are very expensive garments and then decide not to buy anything."

Then I learned how a mill girl can dress so well on a small wage.

She can buy a whole outfit for less than $10. Ready-made garments are absurdly cheap in Fall River. The mill girl's underclothing will cost her $1.93, she can get low shoes for $1, shirt waist, 49 cents; walking skirt, $1.98; hat, $1; belt, 25 cents; stock for neck, 12 cents; cotton gloves, 7 cents, and a jacket for $3. And there you are—a complete outfit for $9.84.

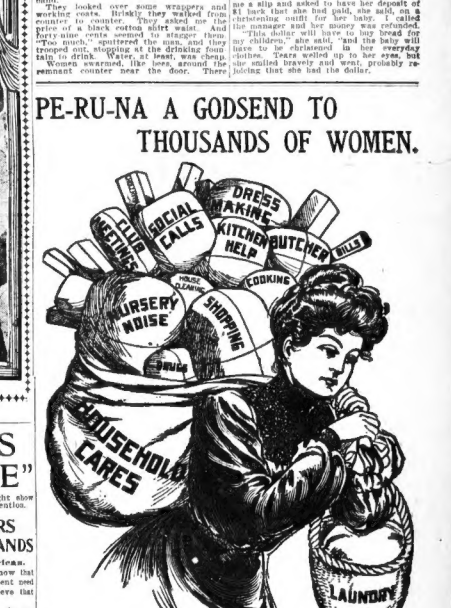
Some of the French dress even cheaper than this. They have a knack of sewing peculiar to their nationality. They make themselves dainty muslin and cotton frocks. Some New England girl's bow of ribbon usually looks as though a blacksmith had forged it, but the French girl can tie a graceful bow or trim a hat artistically.

She buys her cotton, paying perhaps 8 or 10 cents a yard for the very piece of cloth which she wore forty-eight yards for 14 cents. But she saves by being her own dressmaker.

One sad-faced woman came in, handed me a slip and asked to have a dress deposit of $1 back that she had paid, she said, on a tantalizing outfit for her baby. I called the manager and her money was refunded.

"This dollar will have to suffice for my children," she said, "and the baby will have to be christened in her everyday clothes. Tears welled up to her eyes, but she smiled bravely and went, probably rejoicing that she had the dollar.

PE-RU-NA A GODSEND TO THOUSANDS OF WOMEN.



WOMAN'S BURDENS ARE NUMEROUS, RESULTING IN MANY CATARRHAL ILLS.

Woman is burdened with hundreds of duties, some very wearing, some apparently insignificant; all, in the aggregate, an overwhelming load.

Is it to be wondered when they get nervous, run down, weary and weak?

It is to be wondered when there is a general running down of all the organs, creating a chance for the great national ailment, catarrh, to make inroads upon the constitution?

Debility is the favorite state to catarrh, and catarrh will attack that organ which is the weakest.

If it is the stomach, it will become catarrh of the stomach.

If it is the kidneys, it will become catarrh of the kidneys.

If it is the female organs, it will become female catarrh, or result in catarrhal nervousness, otherwise termed nervous prostration.

There are tens of thousands of suffering women who could be relieved of their ills if they would but consult a doctor with the power of Peruna in relieving catarrhal ailments of every character.

We have thousands of testimonials like that of Mrs. Frye, touching the merits of Peruna as a remedy for all catarrhal diseases.

Do not delay. Buy Peruna to-day. Procrastination is the ally of catarrh.

Don't let any one persuade you that there is any remedy that can be substituted for Peruna. Pay no attention to imitations.

The success of Peruna has tempted a great many people to invent something to take the place of it. There is no such remedy. Insist upon having Peruna. Take no other.

Do Not Fail to Read Mrs. Frye's Notable Experience.

Mrs. Sarah Frye, 264 Sylvan Ave., West Asbury Park, N. J., writes:

"I have no words to express my gratitude for the wonderful cure Peruna has done for me. It is a God-send to all suffering women. Peruna has done a wonderful work for me. I was sick over half of my life with systemic catarrh. I want this letter published far and wide as I was a great sufferer, but to-day I feel as well as anybody can feel. Nearly one-half my life I have spent nearly all I could make and scraping for doctors, but none of them did me any good, but since I started on your Peruna one year ago I have not found relief in your wonderful Peruna. I had begun to think that I was not going to get well, but thanks to I am well to-day. I hope and pray you may live long to help others as you have helped me. Instead of being a walking drug store I am growing fat and doing well. I will never be without Peruna."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

PRIMATE TO BE BISHOP'S GUEST

Question of Archbishop of Canterbury Entertainment Here Settled.

WILL FIRST VISIT CANADA

It is now settled that the Archbishop of Canterbury will be the guest of Bishop Lawrence on his visit in Boston to attend the Episcopal General Convention. It has been uncertain till now just who would be entitled to entertain the British prelate. One report was given out that J. Pierpont Morgan would entertain him in the J. Montgomery Sears residence, corner of Arlington street and Commonwealth avenue. It is now known that the Archbishop, who will arrive here October 4, will go to Bishop Lawrence's home on Commonwealth avenue.

The Archbishop will sail from England in the steamship Celtic, August 13, arriving in New York August 27 or 28. He will go immediately to Canada to meet Lord Minto and visit the leading cities. Thence he will go to the coast of Maine and stay quietly with personal friends, for he has asked that during a part of his stay in this country he may have some rest.

After this he will pay his respects to President Roosevelt, and make other visits which already have been planned. While in New York will preach in Trinity Church. On October 9 he will come to Boston for the sessions of the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He will be received here by the local committee, and will during his visit be the guest of Bishop Lawrence at his residence on Commonwealth avenue. He will sail for England from New York October 14.

MORE ARRESTS, LOTTERY FRAUD

"We have every reason to believe that we will be successful in breaking up the bogus lottery fraud and will punish those who have been guilty of it," said Anthony Comstock, vice-president of the Society for the Prevention of Vice, just before he left for New York to-day.

Mr. Comstock says there will probably be other arrests in addition to those of Ike Bill and Empey, the Melrose Highland men whose cases are now before the Grand Jury.

BOSTON MARKET STRONG AGAIN

Following the pace set by Wall street, where a substantial recovery was progressing through the list, the Boston traders bought some stocks in the local market during the morning, with the result that a fairly strong tone had developed by mid-day.

The home market, while stronger, was not active. Shorts covered in various issues, while New York specialties came in for arbitrage issues, notably Union Pacific, which gained over 1 per cent. Copper Range recovered 1½ per cent. of its previous loss, while Amalgamated worked irregularly upward. On buying of odd lots Calumet gained 2 per cent.

At Newport this season one of the handsomest and most talented of England's young diplomats is engaged in a campaign of what Newport calls "active wooing." his object being to secure the heart of one of the belles of the ultra-fashionable set. The young woman in the case is thought by many to be the most beautiful girl at the resort, and the attentions of the young Britisher do not seem to offend her in the least. The story of the young diplomat's campaign, with photographs of himself and the object of his quest, will appear in next SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN. Better order a copy of your newsdealer to-day. AS TENNIS PLAYER AT NEWPORT MISS SEARS WINS NEW HONORS

MISS ELEANORE SEARS

BOSTON TYPE OF THE SOCIETY ATHLETIC GIRL.

Favorite of Boston Society Enthusiastic in Games of Newport Cottagers.

Never Wears Hat, and Secures a Tan That Stays With Her All Winter.

On the Newport tennis courts, Miss Eleonora Sears, of Boston, is winning new honors. Since the tournament began, her enthusiasm has never lagged, and her playing has been watched with much interest.

Miss Sears is the ideal smart set type of the athletic girl. She is a delight to the eye, tall, straight, lithe and the very embodiment of health.

All last Winter, although she was constantly in attendance at dances and dinners, receptions and balls, she failed to show any of the marks of fatigue which dulled the eyes and paled the cheeks of the less active girls.

Each day, Miss Sears found time for a tallop on her favorite mount, or a long walk in the open air, with the result that the season's end found her as fresh and unwearied as its beginning.

Tennis, golf, and horseback riding are the three forms of athletic exercise of which Miss Sears is most fond. She rides splendidly, and is absolutely fearless in the saddle.

Scorning veils and hats during the Summer, Miss Sears acquires a rich coat of tan that even the Winter's rest fails to entirely obliterate. At the many weddings of the Spring season she was a leading maid much in demand, and her tanned cheeks and hands, in contrast to the delicate lace and chiffon of her gowns, were often remarked.

Miss Sears is one of the most unconventional girls in Boston society, in so far as she dares to be original in her gowns, friends, and opinions. She is charmingly girlish and witty to a degree. In Washington last Winter when she visited Miss Roosevelt at the White House, some of her bon mots became famous.

WED DESPITE $10,000 SUIT

That he has been made defendant in a breach of promise suit for $10,000 did not in any way interfere with Cornelius F. Mulcahey's plans to wed Miss Mary E. Kelly. The young man resides in Peabody, and the two young women in Danvers, where the ceremony took place at the parochial residence last evening.

Miss Mary E. Collins, who is housekeeper for her brother, Richard Collins, is the plaintiff in the suit. She alleges that Mulcahey had promised to make her Mrs. Mulcahey.

Mr. Mulcahey is thirty-six years of age and of prepossessing appearance. Miss Collins is thirty-one.

FRENCH WAR VESSEL COMING

The French armored cruiser Dupleix will visit Boston next week. Rear Admiral Rust is in command. The ship will stay a week. The coming of the cruiser is a surprise to naval officials and to the French consul, Duncan Bailly-Blanchard Company, of No. 110 State street.

Why Admiral Rivet should come to Boston is unknown, except that the French government lets the admiral in command cruise wherever he chooses.

In compliance with international naval courtesy, Rear Admiral Wildes, of the Charlestown Navy Yard, and Admiral Rivet will exchange salutes, visit each other and inspect the vessel and many yard together. The Dupleix is now at Newport.

While here the Dupleix will receive people who desire to visit her.

JAPS HOPE TO CONQUER WORLD

That the Japanese entertain fondly a dream of world conquest is the firm conviction of Desmond Fitz Gerald, of Brookline, who ten months ago was sent as a special commissioner of the United States Government to study the sanitary conditions and water supply facilities of Manila, and who resigned over in Japan on his way home.

"While I cannot but admire this wonderful people for what they have accomplished," Mr. Fitz Gerald said, "it seems to me that some day the white peoples must all unite to resist them. All Asiatics, the Japanese included, have a hatred for the white man and look forward to a time when they can control the destinies of the world. I believe our own government will have trouble with the Japanese."

CONTENT AT 100 IN ALMSHOUSE

One hundred years old to-day, and an inmate of Cambridge Almshouse, Mrs. Rieity Holiday said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day, with gentle voice, "I am content."

She was twice wed and twice widowed. She has no kindred living. She is dependent on charity for support. Her eyesight is failing, yet she said cheerfully: "I am satisfied with life. I can still get around pretty good. I take a walk in the grounds every pleasant morning. Cataracts on my eyes trouble me, but I can still see, and my hearing is perfect."

Mrs. Holiday remembers the past with vivid clearness, though the events of her youth come back to her now better than those of her middle life. She recalls minute details of her girlhood. To-day members of St. Paul's church, of Cambridge, are calling on her to congratulate her.

SORRY SHE RAN AWAY TO MARRY

"I am glad I was too young to get a license to marry and sorry that I caused my parents so much grief and worry. If I had realized how they would suffer I never would have done it. How good it seems to be home again with my brothers and sisters!"

Twelve years old, petite and pretty, Victoria Karan contritely made this statement this morning at the home of her father, K. Karan, at No. 14 Oliver place. The girl was found with Stephen Ganem, who is thirty years old, in Bath, Me., and now he is nearing thirty days in jail is that city. Mr. Karan tracked his daughter and after she had been gone a week got her home. Ganem says that he loves the girl and will return here when his sentence is served and lay seige to her heart.

QUICK WORK AT HOSPITAL FIRE

What might have been a disastrous fire was prevented at the City Hospital early to-day by the promptness of two employes, the night electrician and the night watchman.

The electrician discovered the fire in one corner of the second floor of the laundry, a four-story brick building. He called the watchman and the two men got out the fire hose and extinguished the blaze within five minutes.

Superintendent Rowe and his staff were ready to aid the patients if necessary, but there was no panic, as only a few knew that there was any fire.

An alarm was sent in, but the fire was out before the apparatus arrived. The cause of the fire is unknown, and the Fire Marshal will make an investigation this afternoon. The damage was $30.

NEAR TO DEATH BY MOSQUITOES

Mosquitoes were drawing so heavily on Thomas Riley, of Roxbury, for blood that he would have died of weakness soon if he had not been rescued by two men who saw him lying asleep on the Cypress Common, Brookline. They took him to the office of a physician, who dressed his face and hands, which were badly swollen. They then took him home. The physician pronounced Riley's weakness due to loss of blood, caused by the mosquitoes.

INDIAN AT FAIR SHOOTS WHITE

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 28.—A man supposed to be H. C. Davidson, of Cleveland, has been fatally shot by an Indian called Big Bear in the Cliff Dwellers' section of the Pike at the World's Fair. As he entered the show Big Bear opened fire on the crowd. When the shooting ceased Davidson was lying on the ground in agony.

Manager Norton of the Cliff Dwellers came up just in time to save Davidson's head being severed with a tomahawk in the hands of the Indian. Davidson was removed to the Emergency Hospital in an unconscious condition, and Big Bear is in jail awaiting the outcome of the shooting.

GIRL ON HUNT; MISSING 'POLL'

Pretty blue-eyed Esther Daly, sister of Cadet Charles D. Daly, of West Point and former Harvard football captain, wandered distracted about the streets of a fashionable residential district in Brighton to-day searching for her truant parrot Polly. Neighbors wondered at her simple blue gingham gown and white apron until she explained them "Have you seen Polly? He's flown away. Isn't it shocking?"

Police Captain Warren, of Station 14, was conferring at ease when Miss Daly walked in and said:

"Can't you arrest my lad parrot Polly?"

The captain ran to the guard room to see if his visitor's parrot, Pete, had company.

"Nay, Pete, have you seen Polly?" asked the captain.

"Nope," was Pete's laconic reply.

When Polly, who is a three-year-old gray African parrot, was last seen he was circling through the air with a convoy of crows and robbins.

"I was cleaning the biggest parrot cage in Boston on the 26th when the door got open and he flew out," said Miss Daly. "I ran after the bird to her. Her father is John C. Daly, a school street merchant, and the Daly home is No. 14 Sparhawk street, Brighton.

WIFE AND HIRED MAN BOTH GONE

Special to the Boston American.

HANOVER, July 28.—Mrs. Della F. Jacobs, wife of farmer Wilbur F. Jacobs, left her home near the Rockland and Hingham line without telling her husband she was going. On the same day Arthur Gray, a young farm hand, went away. Neither has been seen since. Mr. Jacobs says that he will not search for his wife and has advertised that he will pay no bills for her. She is thirty-five years old and was a servant in the family of Professor Sharpe, of Brown University, when Mr. Jacobs met her in Hingham.

When the farmer was attacked by rheumatism in May last he hired Gray in a Boston intelligence office. While the farmer was confined to the house, his wife managed his milk route, collecting the money. They took Mr. Jacobs's car and went away, and, at his wife's suggestion, the farmer drove to Hingham to see a man who said he wanted the team.

No sooner had Mr. Jacobs left than Gray and the woman hitched the team, and when the farmer got home both his wife and hired man were gone. He drove the milk route himself.

They sold a dollar was given them in Rockland to return the horse and milk wagon.

EVIDENCE IN HURLEY COURT-MARTIAL ALL IN

With the evidence of six commissioned officers of the Ninth Regiment, to the effect that the accused was not drunk on duty as alleged, and was not a drinking man, the evidence in the case of Lieutenant Hurley, of Company A, Ninth Regiment, M. V. M., before a court-martial, has been closed. There were eight witnesses for the defense on hand, but Lieutenant Logan, who conducted the defense, decided that he had put in sufficient evidence. The court allowed until August 11 for the presentation of written arguments.

BIG DOCKET FOR FEDERAL JURY

The Federal Grand Jury, which convened this morning, will consider the evidence in the cases of Hibbard De Bill and William A. Empey, of Melrose Highlands, charged with having used the mails to conduct a lottery business; Roger Robinson, a Pullman car porter, charged with smuggling dutiable goods from Canada; E. S. Sells, alias J. M. Ward, charged with giving a "straw" bail for Jeremiah Maher, and the defendants in the alleged smuggling case which was begun a year ago, and which, in consequence of newly discovered evidence, is being re-presented to the jury by Assistant United States District Attorney Garland.

About sixty witnesses, among them Anthony Comstock, vice-president of the Society for the Prevention of Vice, will be called.

WHY M'DONALD WAS DISMISSED

In explanation of the action of the Police Board in dismissing from the force Patrolman John A. McDonald and exonerating Patrolman Carl Carlstein, who fought in the guardroom at station 2 on July 18, Chairman Emmons said to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day:

"The dismissal of McDonald was the only course left open to the commission. Two of the sitting witnesses stated that McDonald was pushed against Carlstein, that the latter turned upon him and struck him, and that McDonald returned the blow and knocked Carlstein down. The others stated that Carlstein did not strike McDonald, but merely pushed him away, saying, 'Quit fooling,' the fight was rung, and that McDonald then struck Carlstein a heavy blow, knocking him to the floor.

"Carlstein has been picked upon ever since he joined the force. As he is a man who has always appeared to try his best to perform his duty, we are determined to protect him."

DYNAMITED BY "BLACK HAND"

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 28.—Members of the dread "Black Hand" Society attempted to make good their threats against Poggierale Ciro to-day by blowing up his grocery store at No. 252 Elizabeth street with dynamite.

They had followed the usual course of this society of blackmailers and murderers by sending him letters demanding the payment of $2,000 under threat of death. With his wife, father-in-law, seventy-six years old, and his seven children, Ciro lived in two rooms in the rear of the shop.

The explosions jarred police headquarters two blocks away. The police found that the front of the store had been shattered.

In the rear room three children were asleep. The plastering was knocked down by the explosion, and fell on the children. They were not injured.

DEMOCRATS TO OPEN CAMPAIGN

The Executive Committee of the Democratic State Committee will meet to-morrow with Colonel William A. Gaston, the national committeeman from Massachusetts, to consider plans for the State campaign, which will probably be opened with the caucuses for the State convention.

Colonel Gaston will advise the committee concerning what is expected of Massachusetts by the leaders of the party from other States whom he met yesterday at the home of Judge Parker, the presidential candidate.

TRUSTEES OF $2,000,000 UNDER FIRE

Horace A. Jordan Seeks Removal of Executors of Estate Left by Father.

PETITION HEARD TO-DAY

Sensational developments are expected in the Probate Court to-day at the hearing on the petition of Horace A. Jordan, son and heir of Rhoades Jordan, for the removal of the trustees of the estate, Edward W. Hutchins, of the firm of Hutchins & Wing, and Edward S. Dunckley, formerly of Boston but now of St. Louis.

Horace W. Jordan died in Boston on February 21, 1903, leaving an estate valued at from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000. Although all trustees are required by law to file an inventory and make an accounting of property in their charge, Hutchins and Dunckley, it is alleged, failed to do so, till compelled by the court. The inventory was not satisfactory to Horace A. Jordan, who, through his attorney, Edwin C. Lewis, asks for their removal.

At Mr. Hutchins's office in the Sears building a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter was told that he was out of town and would not return until Monday. All information as to his whereabouts was refused.

Horace W. Jordan was a native of Rindge, N. H., and owned a large amount of real estate there. He also owned a great deal of property in Boston and in Minnesota. The petition of the heir follows:

To the Honorable the Judge of Probate in and for said County of Suffolk:

Respectfully represents that by a decree of this court, on the 19th day of April, 1902, Edward W. Hutchins and Howard S. Dunckley, of Boston, in the county of Suffolk, were appointed executors of the will of Horace W. Jordan, late of said Boston, deceased, and have since taken upon themselves the trust of the said Horace W. Jordan, deceased, and also I, petitioner and cestui que trust under said last will and testament, and petitions this honorable court that the said Edward W. Hutchins and Howard S. Dunckley, executors and trustees as aforesaid, for the following causes:

1. For their gross neglect and failure to file a true and proper inventory of all the real and personal property belonging to said estate, as required by law.

2. For their gross neglect and failure to render a true and proper accounting of all the real and personal property belonging to said estate, and of all moneys had and received, as required by law.

3. For their gross neglect and failure to properly manage the affairs of said estate, and of the said Horace W. Jordan, deceased, and other beneficiaries under said last will and testament.

4. For their contempt and failure of their duties as executors and trustees as aforesaid, in making a final agent appointed as required by law, said Dunckley, having removed beyond the jurisdiction of the courts of this State.

5. And this petitioner prays that said executors and trustees, Edward W. Hutchins and Howard S. Dunckley, be removed from their said trust for the aforesaid further reasons that will become apparent to this court.

OLD LADIES' HOME MAY GET JUDGE'S FORTUN

IF WIDOW EVERETT GETS $10,000 SHE MUST GIVE IT TO BAPTISTS.

MISS MARIE B. MACK. MRS. DEWOLFE.

MRS. EVERETT. FIRST WIFE. JUDGE GEORGE W. EVERETT.

PARTIES TO $10,000 WILL CONTEST.

Under a contract entered into by Mrs. G. H. Everett with the Baptist Home for Old Ladies in Cumbridge, when she entered that institution eight years ago, all money which may come into her possession must go to the home. Mrs. Everett is the widow of Judge Everett of Laconia, N. H., and her brother-in-law is endeavoring to secure for her the $10,000 left by the judge.

The contract made by Mrs. Everett with the home is similar to that made by every other inmate, and is one of the rules of the institution.

Under the will left by Judge Everett everything goes to Miss Mack, a milliner who has resided at his home for the past two years.

AUTO SCARES HORSE, 2 HURT

While rounding a sharp turn in the road between Hubbardstown and Barre, the big automobile carrying Mrs. Catherine N. Fitz, of Hyde & Fitz, wool merchants, of No. 246 Congress street, Boston, frightened a horse owned by Nelson Coburn, of Leominster, and Mrs. Coburn, her daughter, Mrs. James Patterson, and baby. Mrs. Patterson's hand was crushed. The baby escaped uninjured. Mrs. Coburn fell between the trees, twisted her left leg and sustained the ligaments in her right knee.

Mr. Fitz and sisters were in the automobile, and while Mr. Fitz went for a physician in the machine the sisters tended the unfortunate women as best she could. Mr. Fitz left his address, then proceeded to Belchertown.

NEEDLE FROM CHILD'S LIVER

Special to the Boston American.

ATHOL, July 28.—Baby Edna Gelinas is able to sleep again, a three-inch cambric needle having been taken out of her liver. She is the child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gelinas and Mrs. Henry A. Gelinas of Lombard street. Three days ago she was playing with a pin cushion. She managed to swallow one of the needles. The operation showed that the needle had passed through the wall of the intestines into the liver and was on its way out again.

CORNER-STONE LAID BY MOON

In order that all the members of the congregation, the majority of whom are day workers, might attend the ceremony, the cornerstone of the new Courtland Street Congregational Church of Everett was laid by moonlight. There was not a cloud in the sky, and the lights of the church grounds were almost as bright as day. The building, which will cost $50,000, will be completed Oct. 1. It will seat 800 persons.

At Newport this season one of the handsomest and most talented of England's young diplomats is waged in a campaign of what Newport calls "active waiting," his object being to secure the heart of one of the belles of the ultra-fashionable set. The story of the young diplomat's campaign, with photographs of himself and the object of his quest, will appear in next SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN.

BABY GIRL KILLED BY TRUCK IN CHARLESTOWN

Frances McCreeven, the three-year-old daughter of Edward McCreeven, was run over and instantly killed in front of her home, No. 20 Washington street, Charlestown, by a truck driven by Dennis E. Donovan, of No. 95 Charles street, Malden. The child was under the horse's feet before the driver could stop. Donovan was taken to Police Station 15, but was released.

SHORE PIRATES LOOT STEAMER

SHIP MAY BE DOOMED

ROCKLAND, Me., July 28.—Officials of the Eastern Steamship Company to-day guard the wrecked steamer, City of Rockland, from the horde of shore pirates from neighboring islands, who succeeded in looting many of the staterooms on the starboard side yesterday. These men fairly swarmed to the steamer immediately the news of the wreck became known.

The work of removing the water-soaked baggage was continued to-day, and the trunks are being forwarded to Bar Harbor and various other points. As the baggage is mostly the property of Summer residents of Bar Harbor, it is believed to be very valuable.

An estimate of the value of the cargo every the packers operating some plants have been busy for days moving stocks of bean to warehouses, abbing houses and to retail stores. The packers were equipped with large stocks, but were afraid a teamsters' strike would prevents its removal.

Two Firms Weaken.

Although representatives of the packing companies declare that no further agreements with their striking employes are desired, and that no negotiations with them are contemplated, rumors are persistent that two of the big companies, Schwarzschild & Sulzberger and the Cudahy Packing Company, are ready to make terms with the men.

The effects of the strike on the local trade has begun to be felt in Chicago, and from now on it is promised that it will be more pronounced. The picketing heretofore has been confined to the packing plants and the stock yards district, deliveries of meat from the branch warehouses in different parts of the city not being interfered with, but now the strikers say these points, as well as the wholesale markets of the big companies, will be picketed and effort made to tie up all distribution.

Walker Hopes to Settle Strike.

One element of hope lies in the effort of James H. Walker, an independent packer, who says he will settle the butchers' strike.

"I believe I can say by to-night that I have succeeded in settling this strike," was the confident assertion given out by Mr. Walker when the newspaper men asked him if it were true he intended to step in where the State Board of Arbitration had failed, and try to bring the packers and strikers to an agreement.

Mr. Walker is a member of the Board of Trade and is closely allied with some of the strongest "operators" in the wheat market. He is in touch also with men representing the vast manufacturing interests outside of the stock speculators. All these dread the effect of a prolonged strike in the packing house district.

Keeps Plans Secret.

Mr. Walker is keeping his plans secret, but it is supposed he will try to bring pressure to bear on the packers to yield a point in their present "stand pat" attitude.

The last attempt to settle the strike, made by the Illinois Board of Arbitration, failed because the packers said, "We have nothing to arbitrate."

They refuse to enter into any new agreement with the strikers. They say they are willing to meet the union leaders at any time the latter care to abide by the original arbitration agreement.

Freight Handlers Quit.

Strike leaders think the packers will feel keenly the loss of the forty freight handlers who have quit work at the stock yards station of the Chicago Junction Railroad. The freight for the local trade passes through the hands of these men. Their refusal to handle non-union product blocks the intentions of the packers to deliver by train to the local markets when their delivery wagons are tied up.

The financial strength of the strikers is again shown in the appropriation of $80,000 by the Packing Trades Council for needy strikers. This is to be issued separate from regular strike appropriations, showing the council's treasury is abundantly supplied.

TWO TO BREAK AWAY FROM MEAT TRUST

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, July 28.—What promises to be a means to the ending of the great meat strike is forecasted by the news that two of the big firms of the Beef Trust are seeking peace with the Meat Cutters' Union. Their reported intention to break away from the packers fully explains the reasons for the New York unions not being ordered out, in accordance with President Donnelly's telegraphic instructions.

Negotiations between the union leaders and the firms of Schwarschild & Sulzberger and the Cudahy Packing Company looking to the signing of an independent agreement, regardless of the action taken by the old packers, have so far progressed that it is considered probable that under a second strike here till the outcome is learned.

SWIFT AND CO. STRIKE BUTCHERS HARD BLOW

POST NOTICES TELLING STRIKING EMPLOYES THEY ARE THROUGH FOR GOOD.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Following the refusal to enter into more agreements with the striking workmen at the stock yards, Swift & Co. to-day posted a notice, directed at sympathetic strikers belonging to the allied trades that they are no longer regarded in the light of employes, and would be paid off as soon as they called.

The appearance of the notice was greeted with fierce exclamations from the crowds that soon gathered to read and discuss the move. The place named for the men to apply for their money is outside the stock yards proper, at Halsted street and Forty-first street and Ashland avenue. It is selected as affording the least possibilities of disorder.

Although packers declare that no further agreements will be entered into with the strikers, it is believed that it will be only a matter of time before the packers will be forced to sign new agreements with the men.

FRENCH COUNT NEWPORT IDOL

Special to the Boston American.

NEWPORT, July 28.—Newport has a new idol. He is Count de Limburg Stirum, of Paris, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Knight, of Philadelphia, and occupies the handsome home on Bellevue avenue, and he is the latest fad of the cottage colony, because—

He speaks English fluently.

He has a larger wardrobe than Berry Wall had in his palmy days, and is far ahead of Jimmy Brown.

He plays tennis like a professional.

He is one of the best swimmers that has been seen at Bailey's Beach.

He drives four-in-hand in a manner worthy of the Horse Show.

He drives an automobile with the skill and daring of a racing chauffeur.

Already the Count has made himself immensely popular, and his exhibition at the beach, where he swam through the heavy surf, almost to the lightship and back, made some of the so-called swimmers open their eyes.

MARLATT SAYS LEVY MOTH TAX

A moth tax, to be levied on owners of property infected by the gypsy and brown-tail moths, is recommended by C. L. Marlatt, entomologist of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, who has been investigating the moth ravages in Boston this Summer.

He thinks the best way to fight the moths is to import from Europe parasites that destroy the pest. He estimates that at least part of the expense of this be borne by the owners of the land benefited by the process.

Dispatches from Washington say that Dr. Marlatt is preparing to submit a detailed report to Dr. L. O. Howard, chief entomologist of the department. Dr. Marlatt's personal opinion is that importation of these European parasites would not endanger vegetable life. He thinks the work should be placed in charge of a State entomologist, with the State, town and property owner sharing the expense.

PRESIDENT OFF TO WASHINGTON

By Boston American Leased Wire.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 28.—Secretary Loeb to-day pulled down the blinds at the executive offices and ordered life at the Summer capital will cease until August 20.

The special train carrying President Roosevelt and family left here at 10 o'clock, reaching Long Island City at 11. A special ferryboat carried the party to Thirty-fourth street and a quick trip across town to the Twenty-third street ferry was made in time to catch the noon express for Washington. Teddy Jr., Archie and Kermit at Philadelphia changed cars for the St. Louis Exposition.

Miss Alice is left in charge of the household on Sagamore Hill, where Ethel of course remains. Mrs. Cowles is to stay over until Mrs. Roosevelt returns on Saturday next.

Three secret service men will guard the house.

KAISER'S SON HAS A CANCER

Special Cable to Boston American.

INTERLAKEN, Switzerland, July 28.—The two young sons of the Emperor, August Wilhelm and Oscar, are now at the Heurich Baths, in Berner Oberland, near Spies, at the foot of the great Neisen. The younger son, Oscar, who is about fourteen years old, is seriously ill with a pulmonary complaint that has developed a growth in the throat similar to the Emperor's trouble in the case of the son. It is stated on good authority that the growth is of cancerous nature. The visit of Oscar was made on the earnest recommendation of the German physician, Dr. Gerhardt, an authority on throat diseases. He advised the Kaiser to put the boy there at once, believing that the cold sulphur springs would be distinctly beneficial.

7 SURVIVORS OF NORGE HERE

ONE DIED ON THE TRIP

Heartrending tales of suffering at sea were told by the seven survivors of the lost steamer Norge who landed here this morning by the Cunard liner Ivernia. Another died when the steamship was taken to Boston Light, leaving a 6-year-old daughter to weep upon a mourner's breast.

Eight of the Norge passengers, all women and children, arrived from Liverpool upon the Ivernia. They were all picked up by the German trawler Fanny after being six days at the mercy of the sea and wave in an open boat. The boat left the sinking Norge with seventy-four persons aboard. One died of exposure and the body was cast into the sea. The Energy landed the living at Stornoway on July 9. All were weak and suffering from grief and exposure, and the survivors who reached Boston were pitiable to look upon.

Mrs. Sopsloski lost strength steadily as the Ivernia sped westward, and succumbed to the hardships of the trip. Frida, was cared for by other immigrants, and until the ship was docked, when George W. Perkins, agent of the Scandinavian-American line, took charge of the Norge survivors. They were penniless and destitute, saved but little clothing.

The survivors who reached Boston are: Frida Sopsloski; Mrs. Inga Jorgensen and her three children, Oscar, Esther and Harriet, all bound for Escanaba, Wisconsin; Mrs. Anna Hall and Miss Hall, daughter Talmar, four years old. Three of the survivors were picked up and brought to Boston by the Norge. The Hallikka family and Mrs. Jorgensen and children were landed at Boston and vicinity.

An eighteen months old child of one of the steerage passengers, died during the voyage and was buried at sea.

The Ivernia brought in 190 saloon passengers, 153 second cabin and 1,000 steerage. Among the saloon passengers were Walter Whiting, the Boston pugilist, and Mrs. John A. Mcleonald, of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Munsey, of that town.

With the second class passengers were several officers of the Salvation Army who spoke with pride of the great gift and the Crystal Palace, in London, which was attended by 10,000 people.

TOOK COMSTOCK FOR 'YEGGMAN'

Anthony Comstock and two of his assistants were taken over the nominal bar for State Treasurer. Mayor Chapin, of Holyoke, wants the office. Other prospective candidates are Colonel John J. Whipple, of Brockton, Silsbia H. Brewster and A. P. Saunders, of Springfield. Mayor Chapin visited Republican State headquarters and talked with Senator Lodge and former Governor Crane about his ambition. It is said also that Elisha T. Harrell, of Rockland, will be another candidate.

James H. Thompson, of Ward 28, had an interview with Senator Lodge in regard to the Congressional nomination in the Eighth district. Senator Thompson, Eugene O'Meara, Colonel Albert Clarke and Chas. F. Donovan are candidates for the place.

In the Tenth District, Lawyer Joseph F. O'Connell, of Ward 20, leader of the "Red Devil" Democracy, said he had been asked to be a candidate to run against Congressman McNary for the Congressional nomination.

Former Congressman Joseph A. Conry, of East Boston, and Joseph F. Hamilton, of Charlestown, who were defeated in the Congressional fight in the Ninth District two years ago, may again try to obtain the Democratic nomination.

FIGHT FOR LIFE ON WINDOW SILL

NEW YORK, July 28.—For five minutes the Rev. James Berry, a priest, fought on the window ledge of the third floor of a house on Second avenue with Mrs. Jennie Saxen, an insane woman who was determined to end her life by throwing herself to the street.

The priest had called on the family to see of what assistance he could be. Mrs. Saxen talked wildly to him, and sprang up, crying that she would kill herself, and ran to the open window.

The priest caught her by the skirts as she was about to throw herself out. She turned savagely on him, and with all her strength tried to fight him off. Mrs. Saxen's frenzied screams at this point served to the assistance of the priest, and the woman was taken to the hospital.

PRINCE ALERT TO BE AT BUFFALO

NEW YORK, July 28.—Trainer Curry shipped his string to Buffalo to-day, taking in his car Prince Alert, 1:59½; Dry Monopole, 2:08 (formerly Dick Wilson); Hallfellow, 2:08¼; Little Sphinx and Prince Greenlander, 2:09¾; Mary Jon, Angelin Wilkes and Florence Wilton, possibly shipping Burlock, as he needs a change of track just about now.

The Buffalo entries are at hand, and Secretary Beatty certainly serves up several attractions that will please the public. Many of the M. and M. candidates meet in the stakes, and about every good horse out to date goes at this big meeting. The 2:01 pace has Nervolo, Mayor C., Star Hal, Lecando and others, and, contrary to expectations, neither Dariel (2:00¾) or Dan R. 2:01¾) starts.

D. T. Moran left for a month's outing yesterday, and while Trainer Nolan is getting his aristocratic young trotters Stredition, Silk Weaver, Quinetta and others into shape for Fall work, he will be at his Cape Cod place enjoying the sea breezes.

Local horsemen are discussing the recent working of The Monk (2:06¾). Mr. Billings drove him recently a mile to a high-wheeled sulky in 2:13 at Cleveland; then half an hour later, Frank G. Jones repeated him in the same notch to a wagon very handily. He may start at the gala matinee of the Cleveland Driving Club, on Saturday, against Maud S.'s track record of 2:08¾, in the old days of the high-wheel sulky.

FAST FILLY TO RACE AT SPA

Special to the Boston American.

CHICAGO, July 28.—According to the plans of Owner J. W. Fuller, the fast filly Tokalon, which last week defeated English Lad in a sensational race, may be shipped to Saratoga to meet the speedy filly Beldame in some of the big races.

It would not be at all surprising should Tokalon win over Beldame to see her in one of the big Eastern stables soon after. Local horsemen predict a brilliant future for Tokalon, and her success at Saratoga is awaited with interest.

RYAN MAY MEET ROOT

Special to the Boston American.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Ed White, the local boxing promoter, who recently received permission from Mayor Smith to hold a series of boxing meetings in Lyons, Ill., is desirous of matching Tommy Ryan, the middleweight champion of the world, and Jack Root, of this city.

Root says he is willing to make a match with Ryan, and now White is only waiting for the acceptance of the offer outside Ryan. If the bout takes place, which seems more than likely, the men will box for ten rounds, while the weight question will be decided when the bout is clinched.

HERE'S RICE IN TRIM AGAIN

Billy Rice, the Roxbury feather, is travelling on the path which leads to the home roost of one Matty Baldwin, of Charlestown. He is hot after a bout with the latter and is willing to concede anything in order to gain a battle with the fast little lad from the Neck.

Rice was recently matched to fight Baldwin at the Cambridge A. A., but broke his hand two or three days before the scheduled battle, and Young Donohue was pitted against the Charlestown crack. This time, Rice says, he is no danger of getting injured, as he will take good care that nothing happens before he clashes with Baldwin.

M'GOVERN GAME, BUT EASILY OUTCLASSED BY CHAMP NEIL

Special to the Boston American.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—Those two little star bantams, Frankie Neil and Hughey McGovern, who figured in such a gruelling before the National A. C., were as quiet as Quakers this morning. It is no wonder they were not feeling in the best of shape, as both went through a milling which fells to the lot of few fighters. Of course, McGovern felt the poorer, as he got the harder pummelling, but Neil was damaged some too. Both little whirlwinds had gashes on their cheeks and their whole appearance was plainly evidence of the terrific encounter which they had. Their faces looked careworn and drawn. Neil was in the better spirits, as he had cornered the honors, while McGovern was disappointed, because he confidently expected to whip Neil.

"I'll take a cold water bath before I eat breakfast," said the Californian, "and then I'm sure I will feel better. It was a hard bout, but I got there, and that is all there is to it. You bet Hughey is a gamester, and he is there with both hands. I'm now ready to meet any other bantam who thinks he can take the championship away from me. I don't want any rest, but I'll take them on as fast as they come."

Game Exhibition.

Never in the history of the local sport has there been a finer exhibition of the manly art seen than was displayed by Neil and McGovern. They fought the fiercest men here in many a day. It was a sure thing if the bout lasted one round longer, Hughey would have been given the sleep wallop. In the sixth, the 'Frisco chap had him pretty well sized up and he all but sent Terry's brother to the land of dreams.

When the final gong sounded Neil had him up against the ropes, and Hughey was completely at his mercy. The fight fans, who crowded every available inch of room in the club, were shouting for the knockout drop, which anxious Frankie was ready to administer. But the gong rang and Neil was sadly disappointed as he had been robbed of an inevitable knockout.

Both pugs went off to their dressing room, while the fans shouted and cheered wildly for McGovern, as he had showed he was just as game as his brother Terry ever dared to be, and for Neil, as he clearly outboxed the Brooklyn boy.

Rapid and Scientific Go.

Days may come and days may go, but that mill will undoubtedly linger forever in the minds of the enthusiasts, who were fortunate enough to be the lucky ones to see it. For rapid fire work, science and the like, this had any of the recent fights beaten to a standstill.

The punches which were rained on McGovern's anatomy were enough to send most of the bantams down in the slouch of deepest long before the sixth round. Neil kept after his opponent all the time. First it was one hand that did the work and then another.

The "Mex" held his head down a wee bit and tried hard to stave off defeat, but it was useless. Neil went into the battle with the perfect confidence which any champ should display. Apparently he had his man sized up before they stepped into the ring and knew just what would worry the lad from the home of the trolley dodgers.

At that, McGovern landed many punches which shook Neil's stocky frame, but four times Neil's head was driven far back, but he quickly recovered and prevented his adversary from following up the momentary advantage.

Different Wallops.

It was peculiar to note the style of blows delivered by both lads. Neil used the left to the fact and right to the wind with telling effect, while McGovern just adopted the same wallops, but with different hands than which Frankie used.

"Mex" fell pretty strong in the second round when he drew the claret from Neil's smeller. In fact, this was the only period in which McGovern appeared to equal advantage. Most of the fans agreed that the honors in this session were evenly divided, but they awarded the other rounds to Neil. Neil worried Hughey by hanging on his shoulders and scoring uppercuts, which the Brooklyn kid could not counter.

In the last round he was hitting Hughey into a clinch, Neil shouted to Terry McGovern, who was at the ringside, "He's a tough customer." When McGovern copped Neil behind the ear in the second round, the latter winked at his own father, who was in his corner.

EDDIE HANLON IN TRIM FOR NELSON

Special to the Boston American.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—Fight fans are flocking to this city for the Eddie Hanlon-Battling Nelson fight, which will take place here to-morrow night. Both men, according to their own statements, are in the best of shape, and a good, exciting battle is sure to result.

"I'm going to do up this boy Nelson in quick order," said Hanlon, when he came to his headquarters after a short run on the road. My condition is better than it has been since I fought Young Corbett. I understand Nelson is quite a battler, but I believe that he will find his master in me."

On the other hand, Nelson is equally confident of giving the Californian a whipping. He has whipped such fast men as Spider Welch and Martin Canole lately, and his stock has jumped away up. Hanlon got the decision over Canole in twenty-five rounds, while Nelson clearly outclassed the same lad in eighteen rounds. Hanlon then pick Hanlon to win inside of eleven rounds.

JIMMY GARDNER IS AIMING HIGH

Jimmy Gardner, the Lowell boxer, whose great victory over Willie Fitzgerald, of New York, at Butte, has been the talk of fistiana, is out for the lightweight championship of the world. He will soon tackle Joe Gans, if he is able to get a match with that colored champ.

"I feel as though I could whip Gans, as easily as any boxer I've ever fought," said the Lowell star. "There is nothing I would like any better than the opportunity to take the measure of that Rittz cyclone of blood and flesh. Gans is by mind he is at the top of the lightweight ladder, but I do not believe he will enjoy his lofty position after he has met me."

There is much talk of an immediate battle between Gardner and Gans. It is likely that one of the Butte clubs will get the bout, as they consider it would be a grand attraction.

BADGERS WANT BIG REGATTA IN WEST

MADISON, Wis., July 28.—The managers of the Wisconsin University athletics are now seriously talking over the advisability of forming a rowing league in the West, which will include at least three of the better palaces of learning. If it can be arranged some of the smaller colleges will also be admitted to the association.

Wisconsin is the only institution at present which maintains a department of aquatics in the West. They believe that if a number of the colleges were admitted to the league the rowing game would be made quite as interesting as in the East.

The St. John's Military Academy, at Deerfield, has a crew department, Beloit College could conveniently row in Rock River, and the Marquette College crews, if formed, could easily find some river where they could practice rowing.

It is also the intention of the executives of the rowing league to attract one of the great Eastern builders of shells out here. They say he would find plenty of work. It is doubtful if Davy of Hoyle would accept such an offer, but it is thought some of their assistants might.

While in the East, Coach DeVoe, of Wisconsin, had conferences with some of the Eastern builders of shells, and they say they are willing to come West when they find a lucrative field.

There is a splendid reason for the Badger athletic managers endeavoring to forge a rowing league. It is chiefly because of their continued failure to land anything in the Poughkeepsie regatta, which is rowed on the Hudson River. Year after year they have flunked in this event, until now they are rather discouraged.

Also the expense, which a trip East involves, is enough to stagger an undertaker. It has been known to cost at least $2,000 to bring their crews over to New York. If the league could be formed it would stimulate the sport in the West, and it would also do away with needless expense of a trip East.

DICK WELLES SOON TO RACE

Special to the Boston American.

ST. LOUIS, July 28.—Additional interest in the Harlem track's Summer meeting is being aroused, because of the announcement that Dick Welles, who was held in such esteem by the Westerners last season, and holder of the world's mile record, will be one of the starters.

The great son of King Eric has been ailing for a long time, and it is just now that he is getting into form. Owner Reopess is very confident that his plucky colt will capture many prizes before the hard weather sets in. He may start here Saturday.

Dick Welles is at present here with the rest of the Reopess stable. Probably the first part of next week Reopess will ship him to Harlem, where his old stall is already awaiting his advent. Harlem track is the favorite spot of the four-year-old, as it was there he won most of his money and broke the mile record.

Dick Welles will battle for many rich stakes, namely the Speed, Garden City and the $5,000 Twentieth Century Handicap at a mile and three-sixteenths. Moreover, Reopess may make up his mind to send his great colt after some other big events.

EASTERN LEAGUE RESULTS.

At Toronto—Toronto, 6; Providence, 5.
At Montreal—Jersey City, 4; Montreal, 3.
At Buffalo—Baltimore, 11; Buffalo 9 (12 innings).
At Rochester—Newark, 12; Rochester, 10.

DODGERS BAT AT THE WRONG TIME

NEW YORK, July 28.—Hanlon and his Brooklyn team are home after a most disastrous trip in the West. The Washington Park players, since they left their home ground a month ago, have had more than their share of ill luck, and they have also given on more than one occasion some weird exhibitions of baseball. While some of the defeats against them can be charged to Dame Fortune, the many other defeats were due to poor playing.

In a few of the games in the West the Brooklyns played fast ball—the kind of ball that made Ned Hanlon think he had a live baseball team. The big majority of the games, however, were of the kind that brought many gray hairs to the veteran manager.

Hanlon, without doubt, the most disappointed manager in the National League, has had good teams and poor ones in his long career, but it is doubtful if he has ever had an aggregation that has played so poorly, and yet often has given such promise as the Brooklyn nine has this season.

In the early season the Superbas played fast baseball, and Hanlon declares his team would finish in the first division. The Brooklyn manager is making no prediction at present. Instead he is trying hard to hold his team in its present position, and it would not be surprising to see the Brooklyn drop behind the Bostons before they get through with their series with McGraw's leaders.

Hanlon refused to talk about the Western trip. Captain Dillon, however, found time to state that his team, with a little bit of luck, would have won several games.

"We batted hard in several of the games," said Dillon, "and in almost all of them we fielded well, but our opponents were fortunate enough to drive out hits when they needed runs. Look over our scores and see how many men were left on bases in our games, and you can easily figure out why we were defeated so often. Our hits, or rather most of them, were made when they counted for naught."

BUDLONG CHAMP AGAIN.

Special to the Boston American.

BRISTOL, July 28.—After four well played sets in the challenge match for the State tennis championship, Clarence Budlong successfully defended his title for the fourth time. His opponent, J. D. E. Jones, started well, taking the first set, but after that it was Budlong all the way.

HOW MUGGSY M'GRAW LOVES BAN JOHNSON'S BALL LEAGUE

NEW YORK, July 28.—"We're home again," said John J. McGraw, "and I don't mind adding that I am glad of it. Not because we have not had a pleasant time and enjoyed the society of the good people whom we met, but for the reason that travel in the Summer time is always bound to be a little irksome, especially when you are covering nearly half the continent.

"As I said, I say it now, that I thought we had a 'cinch' on the championship. Several people asked me my opinion of the New Yorks' chances, and I told them that they appeared to me to be as good as those of any other team in the league and much better than some.

"I don't believe in claiming 'cinches' until it is time to do so. The race is still long. We aren't over much more than half of it. Who knows what will happen between now and the middle of October. Half the team may be in the hospital by that time.

"Players in good trim? Yes, most of them. Got a little lameness here and there, and three or four were affected by the heat in the West—enough to affect anybody, by the way—but outside of that I guess they will show up in tolerably good condition at roll call.

No Post Series.

"Nothing more to say about playing a championship series with the American League champions, if we should win the pennant, than I have had to say for the last two years. In 1903, while we did not win the championship, I stated privately and publicly, too, that if the New Yorks brought up I have always said one thing and always mean.

"With me it's purely a matter of principle, nothing more. . . . Moreover my treasurer by American League officials only too well. If it is time to do so. The race is still long. We aren't over much more than half of it. Who knows what will happen between now and the middle of October. Half the team may be in the hospital by that time.

We aren't over much more than half of it. Who knows what will happen between now and the middle of October. Half the team may be in the hospital by that time.

"We lost two games on the road that were heart breakers. They were the pair dropped in Pittsburg in the ninth inning. Pittsburg won on their merits, but it is tough to carry a team up to the ninth inning and then have defeat scored against you by long hits on the part of your adversaries. If we had been batting up to our usual speed we would have had both games. We would have had them because we would have had too many runs for the Pittsburg to beat us out so easily.

The New York pitchers are in good condition. Taylor may need a little rest, but will be in fine shape to pitch by the time it comes his regular turn that I don't want to disappoint him. Ames has as much speed as last year, but lacks work. If he is ready early from the beginning of the season he would have better control of the ball and would be a very hard man to hit. I used Elliott at the end of the last game and he was not obliged to extend himself. He is another pitcher who needs plenty of work to be right.

"Don't think that there is any player on the New York team who is so certain of the pennant is won that he is likely to take things easy. We won't see a player in the team happy until the afternoon comes that settles the championship, either one way or the other, and it will be some time before we will look forward to anything like that.

"They are all trying to do the best they can, and they have not played any baseball since they have been away of which New York need be ashamed. One newspaper in Pittsburg made a personal attack upon some of the players, but the young star who writes the baseball news for that particular moulder of Pittsburg opinion has so taken to heart the possible defeat of the Pittsburgs for the championship this year that he sees everything through a glass darkly. That's all."

player who comes to the Hub. His ability has never been questioned and the progress of any of his diamond enterprises has been watched with interest.

"All I want is another season with the boys, and I'll bring them up into the first division, or I don't want to figure in the game any longer. There are a bunch of youngsters on the team and it takes a long time for them to play in major league style.

"You know the Boston team did not have a champion team in the first year. My mine is developing on the same line, as the champs, and I like the champs, expect to have a leader next year.

Better Luck Coming.

"Even this year we are trying to make a better showing. It's hard sailing to last place. When we make a new start next year things will be different, and I would not be surprised if we had a champion aggregation.

"I admit the boys pull off a number of dumb plays and the like, but I can see they are improving. When they are together a little longer they will make a much faster group of players. All of the players are trying hard to get out of last place, and I count upon them accomplishing that stunt before may days have passed.

"The Quakers certainly are showing better form than when last seen here. They seem to be weeded on better and they are showing more team work. They know they've been up against it, and that the teams of criticism have been piled upon them, but they are sticking it out and consequently doing better work.

Before hostilities opened up there was some lively fielding done on both sides. The Quakers specially looked like two-time winners, and the way they romped over the diamond pleased Manager Duffy immensely.

Buck in High Spirits.

Manager Hockenberger was elated over the success of his stars yesterday. He moved around the bench as if he was in charge of a pack of world beaters. He was a little puzzled before things whooped up as to whom he would send to the slaughter-post. Fisher looked to be down to fine form, and he thought he would choose that artist to stand off the advances of the Quakers.

On the other hand, Pitcher Corridon, who was just received from the Colts for Jack Harry, did some fine warming up. He looked to be in fine physical shape, and he said he would try hard to win his first game for the visitors.

"I've been in for a long time," said Corridon, "but I think I'm in proper physical shape now. I'm going to try hard to make the Quakers a stronger team, and I will devote all my energies to this."

The Bostons thought it would be a wise plan to capture both games of the double header from the visitors. They are trying hard to overtake St. Louis, now that they are in sixth place. Smiles were seen on their faces, and it looked as though it would be a cinch for them to wallop the gents from Slowtown.

MURPHY NOT HOMESICK BUT ILL

NEW YORK, July 28.—Looking far from being in good health, P. M. Murphy, the Harvard athlete who was to have competed in the high jump in the international games in London, last Saturday, and who left England suddenly, arrived on the Teutonic.

All the way over he was under the care of the ship surgeon. It had been reported that he quit the team on account of homesickness and without telling them of his plans. This Murphy denied, and said on had come home on account of illness and on the advice of the trainer of the team.

"The story that I left England on account of homesickness is an untrue," he said. "I left because I was on the verge of nervous prostration. This was the result of hard training on top of an attack of measles, and much study for my examinations.

"Before I left with the team I had lost five pounds. This was known to the managers and trainers, but it was thought best that I should go, in hopes that I would be in good condition before the meet. I was not. In fact, I lost eight pounds and so returned before the games."

BIG FELLOWS IN MAT TEST

CHICAGO, July 28.—Marvin Hart's aggressive manager, Jack McCormick, who knows a few things about the wrestling game, is trying hard to get on a match with John Willie, the crack middleweight fighter on the mat.

McCormick has a good opinion of his wrestling ability and offers to throw Willie twice in the hour and will put up a side bet of $100, while the winner takes all of the purse.

Now that the boxing game is stopped in this city, McCormick believes that a wrestling card would be quite the proper thing and be a big attraction.

"As I shall leave here in time to see the Jeffries-Munroe fight in Frisco, I would like to have the match take place sometime before August 12.

"My object in going to California is to be at the ringside to challenge the winner on behalf of Marvin Hart. The Louisville slugger will go along with me to witness the fight and complete arrangements for a bout with Kid McCoy that a prominent Frisco club has agreed to put on later. "If's up to Willie if he thinks he has anything on me in the wrestling line."

LOU DILLON'S NEW RECORD

DETROIT, July 28.—That famous trotting mare, Lou Dillon, this morning did not show any ill effects from her trotting and lead breaking mile at Grosse Point. Her trainer, Millard Sanders, says she could repeat again to-day.

That the queen is in form to attack her own world's record was shown by the ease with which she lowered Cresceus's time here of 2:05 by a second. Turfmen here think that she will be able to create new figures before the season is over.

There is a good card on to-day, and another big attendance is looked for.

M'FARLAND, CHICAGO

VESELY, TITUS, GREER IN THE BIG REGATTA

Special to the Boston American.

ST. LOUIS, July 28.—Frank Vesely, who was recently injured in an accident on the Hudson River, arrived here to-day. He is rowing in good form and should be a large factor in the championship single sculls. Titus seems to be showing up in practice as well as Greer, and many believe that he will recover the honors he lost to the Kaskaskia last year at Worcester. With Greer, Vesely and Titus rowing in the best of condition, the race should be worth going miles to see, as it will be a toss-up who will win.

Jim Wray's eight is picked as a winner in the eight-oared scrambler race. Wray is so hopeful of taking this event that he has gathered in enter the senior eight-oared race against the Argonauts, of Canada, and the Vesper crew, of Philadelphia. They may not grant him this favor, but he is making a great bid for it.

The drawings have been made for to-morrow's races. Fred Shepard should win the first heat of the intermediate singles, although George Lloyd, the Arlington Boat Club oarsman, may give him a great go. James Tyrrell, Jr., should have a walk away in the second heat, and that will leave the battle between Greer and Titus. Frank Smith will battle hard in the first heat of the association single sculls, while Vesely and Greer, of Arlington, Arlington may get the second heat honors. Vesely is picked to win out.

GOT RAW DEAL, SAYS SHY FAY

Shy Fay, manager of Young Cahill, who lost the decision in his six-round bout with Joe O'Brien, of Cambridge, this week, dropped into the BOSTON AMERICAN office to-day and issued a challenge in behalf of his man for a return bout with O'Brien.

Cahill wants the return match to cover ten rounds. He believes he can show his strong points better in a long distance go. "We received a raw deal in that bout," said Fay, "and we are anxious to get another match. I guarantee we will deliver the slumberous goods the next time."

MYOPIAS SURE TO WIN.

Despite the report to the contrary, there will be no team of the Dedham Polo Club in the championships at Narragansett Pier next week. The official drawings show Dedham scheduled to play Myopia on Tuesday, but the latter team will win by default. The Myopias won't be there because the polo committee failed to sustain their protest against a member on the Bryn Mawr team.

HUB HORSE IN FRONT.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 28.—In the races at Delaunier Park the best event, 2:25 trot or pace, went to Polly G., owned by D. Chamberlain, Boston, Favorite from the start in the betting, Polly G. lost the first two heats, but she warmed up nicely and took the next three and race in handy style.

HERE IS AN INDEXED GUIDE

FOR HARNESS HORSEMEN.

The BOSTON AMERICAN continues this morning the publication of an indexed guide of the Grand Circuit harness races. Each race is numbered and in future any horse that has started in any of the Grand Circuit races will be indexed so that one can quickly refer to his previous races.

These indexed guides should be cut out of the BOSTON AMERICAN every morning and pasted in a small book. Horsemen will find that by the time the Grand Circuit horses reach Readville the indexed guides will be very valuable.

In order to make the guide more complete the races at Saugus, Dover, Nashua and other New England points will also be indexed from now on. The third day's guide of the Grand Circuit and the second day's at Saugus follow:

WRENN BOYS WIN AT LONGWOOD

LONGWOOD CRICKET CLUB GROUNDS, July 28.—It was eleven o'clock before any of the players in the tennis tourney left the clubhouse. The attendance during the early day was rather light, but in the afternoon nearly all the seats in the stands were filled to their capacity. The weather was perfect for the matches, and with such excellent matches carded the fans were out in full force. Many of Boston's best known people were in attendance, the fair sex being especially in prominence.

The first match of the morning was between W. J. Clothier and N. P. Hollowell, Clothier was the favorite as far as form went, but Hollowell won many friends by his conscientious playing, and when he went on to the courts he was given a rousing ovation. He was outclassed by the giant player, and after the first game there was nothing to it but Clothier. The Philadelphian played much better this morning than in any of his previous matches in this tournament. His play was snappy and his work at volleying was really phenomenal. Hollowell lost by the score of 6—3, 6—1, 6—2.

It was nearly 1 o'clock before any of the other matches got under way. Wright and Ward, who were pitted against H. L. Nettleton and A. F. Fuller, were the second teams to start play. The Wrenn boys, who were drawn with E. R. Speare and T. B. Plimpton, arrived at the grounds fresh from Newport. They are well known here, and the first half hour they spent greeting their many friends.

The Wrenns were easy winners in the doubles, Speare and Plimpton being outclassed many points. The victors played the usual fast game. They showed great form, and already many are of the opinion that they will win the championship. However, when they get up against Wright and Ward, and Larned and Campbell they will not have such an easy time. The score was 6—3, 6—1, 6—0.

Result of to-day's matches:
EASTERN CHAMPIONSHIP DOUBLES—THIRD ROUND.
R. D. Wrenn and G. L. Wrenn, Jr., defeated E. R. Speare and T. B. Plimpton, 6—3, 6—1, 6—0.
CUP SINGLES—SIXTH ROUND.
W. J. Clothier defeated N. P. Hollowell, 6—3, 6—1, 6—2.

WAGNER MADE FIRST CENTURY

To Hans Wagner, of the Pittsburgs, belongs the distinction of making the first 100 hits in the National League. This he accomplished Wednesday, when his three-bagger won the game from the Giants. His ninety-eighth and ninety-ninth hits were also triples. Besides being the first to make a century run in hits, he is also tied with Chance in batting, and that means he is at the top. He also leads in doubles, is tied for stolen bases, three-base hits and total bases, and second in extra bases and fourth in runs scored.

In the race for team batting Pittsburg leads the league with an average of .270, with New York following with .264. In fielding St. Louis and the Giants are tied with .956, and Pittsburg is right at their coat-tails with .954.

SCRAPPY MORAN FOR THE HUB

CHICAGO, July 28.—It is not likely that Umpire Moran will be seen officiating in the Windy City again. After the scene Tuesday President Hart wired President Dullam that he would close the grounds and lose the rest of the Cincinnati series by default if Moran wasn't transferred.

So Pulliam ordered a shift and Moran will go to Boston and Hank O'Day will come here.

N. E. LEAGUE RESULTS.

At Manchester—Lawrence, 4; Manchester, 3.
At Concord—Concord, 4; Fall River, 3.
At Lowell—Lowell 4; New Bedford, 1.
At Haverhill—First game, Nashua, 1; Haverhill, 11; second game, Haverhill, 9; Nashua, 3. Attendance 1,618.

SAY HETTY G. IS A WONDER

ALBANY, July 28.—Turfmen who saw Hetty G.'s performance at the Island Park races pronounce her a wonder. After taking the first two heats out in 2:05 pace in ordinary time. Driver Murphy let Hetty G. out in the third.

The Key Hot mare went the last half in exactly one minute, and considering the fact that the track was about three seconds slow, the performance was certainly wonderful. The time of the heat, 2:04¾, breaks the track record.

GRIM READY FOR PUNCHING

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—Jack Williams, the crack light heavyweight, will try out Joe Grim, the human punching bag, Friday night, at the Manhattan A. C., in the main bout of six rounds.

Williams says he will put Tuffer Maher away in one round and has got a terrific wallop, but Grim has stalked off all the good ones from Bob Fitzsimmons down, and though giving away weight is expected to stay the limit.

MORAN'S GOOD RACE.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 28.—That clever bike boy from Chelsea, Mass., Jimmy Moran, gave Bobby Walthour the race of his life at the Stadium. It was a fifteen-mile affair, and the local rider only won by a scant yards in 20 m. 52 2-5 sec.

WESTCHESTER'S GAME.

GREAT NECK, L. I., July 28.—Despite their heavy handicap, the club polo players of the Westchester Country Club proved too fast for the Great Necks in the challenge cup series. The score at the finish read: Westchester, 18; Great Neck, 8½.

WORLD'S CHAMPS IN FAIR GAMES

All athletic interest is now centred on the forthcoming Olympic games, the World's championships, that are to be held in St. Louis from August 29 to September 3. From present indications the meeting of 1904 will equal the ones of 1896 and 1900. There can be no question whatever but that the athletic talent will be superior to that which has been exhibited at other meetings.

As the prominent clubs of the East and West have gotten together the strongest teams possible. America's most famous athletes will be represented. Several clubs from the West, the Milwaukee, Chicago and Missouri athletic clubs, have secured nearly all the prominent athletes in that district, and in the East the New York A. C. and the Irish American New York Track A. C. are working tooth and nail to get out team that will win the championship trophy as well as the individual ones.

The many foreign cities that are coming in may upset the calculations of the Americans, but it is confidently expected that the point trophy will be won by an American athletic club. And that world's records will be beaten goes without saying, for the Olympic world's records that were made at Athens in '96 were bettered by those made at Paris in 1900, and no doubt many of the records that were made in Paris will be equaled or bettered at the St. Louis meeting in August.

The following are the world's Olympic records made in Paris in 1900.

Sixty-metre run, 7 seconds, A. C. Kraenzlein; 100 metre run, 10 4-5 seconds, Walter Tewksbury; 200 metre run, 22 1-5 seconds, Walter Tewksbury; 400-metre run, R. W. Long (U. S. A.), 49 4-5 seconds; 800-metre run, 4 minutes 6 seconds, C. Bennett, England; 1,500 metre steeplechase, 4 minutes 6 seconds, G. W. Orton; 4,000 metre steeplechase, 12 minutes 58 4-5 seconds, Gaston Ragueneau; 110 metre hurdle race, 15 4-5 seconds, A. C. Kraenzlein; 400 metre hurdle race, 57 seconds, A. C. Kraenzlein; Team race, 3,000 metres, Millrose A. C., of New York; Walking match, high jump, for men, 5 feet 7 inches, A. C. Kraenzlein; broad jump, 23 feet 6 inches, A. C. Kraenzlein; pole vault, 10 feet 9 inches, Ray C. Ewry; standing high jump, 5 feet 5 1-2 inches, Ray C. Ewry; standing broad jump, 10 feet 6 inches, Ray C. Ewry; standing hop, step and jump, 34 feet 8 inches, Ray C. Ewry; throwing 56-pound weight, 34 feet 4 inches, Truxton Hare; throwing 56-pound weight with both hands, 71 feet 2 inches, Truxton Hare; throwing 16-pound shot, 46 feet 7 inches, Josiah McCracken; throwing 16-pound shot with both hands, 79 feet 4 inches; throwing the discus, 118 feet 2 3-10 inches, Rene Sieuz, France.

There are, however, other events that clubs can score points on. The team race, lifting of the bar bell and the all around dumb bell competition; the international team race, and the international tug-of-war. The fact that the tug-of-war can be made up of foreigners representing the country will give to the four athletic clubs who are striving for point honors the right to enter a team under its club name, and it is the intention of the N. Y. A. C. to enter a very strong tug-of-war team composed of former American champions. In the international team race the same conditions will prevail, and no doubt America will be represented by three or four teams for this race, for the club that wins the first race will score five points that will go towards the point trophy.

Notes of the Harness Horses.

A. H. Merrill, of Danvers, starts the harness horses at Detroit this week.

Alden Mathbers, who received a bad tumble at Old Orchard, is said to be riding again this week. Alden's mount in the 2:20 pace at Saugus, was thrown from his sulky, but escaped unhurt.

Sally Lunn, 2:16¾, is the fastest two-year-old trotter of the year. She is by Wagnina, 2:19¾, dam Belle de Ranco, second dam the great brood mare, Alma Mater.

Billy G., in T. W. Murphy's contingent of the Fashion Farm's stable, trotted without aid over the half-mile track at Courtland, N. Y., a full mile in 2:06.

Colonel J. G. Merrill, of Pittsfield, Me., is negotiating for the Maplewood track, Bangor, to give one or two meetings this Fall.

David B. Harrington, of New York, the well-known horseman, has bought a large farm in Monmouth, Me., where he will build a track and enter largely into the breeding of fast trotting horses.

W. G. Simpson, of Lexington, Ky., has picked up a two-year-old filly which rather sets him in cradle building. It is a fairly calf of Wilkes, sired by Sam Matzo, dam Euphonic, by King Wilkes, second dam by Alcyone. The youngster can show a mile in 2:31, under light work, and she is entered in the Kentucky Futurity and Stock Farm stakes.

STARTLING STORY OF NEWPORT'S GAY LIFE

Newport's ultra-fashionable cottage colony is enlivened just now by the presence at social functions there of no less than seventy young and handsome divorcees. There are merry meetings at balls and receptions of unblushing brides and the men they used to belong to. Startling facts about their influence upon young girls and the many married couples of fashionable society are brought out in a great double-page illustrated feature in next SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN. If you want to make sure of getting a copy, better tell your newsdealer to-day and he'll save you one. Price 5 cents, everywhere.

CALDWELL TAKES A RACE.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 28.—In a fifteen-mile motor paced race at the Calumet Harry Caldwell won from Basil De Guichard in 21 m. 12 2-5 s.

MOST of the profits and expenses ordinarily met on the way between the grower, maker, jobber and dealer are saved by The United System of Retailing. This saving, put into quality, makes the cigars we build our business on 30 to 50 per cent. better than cigars of like price produced by ordinary methods of merchandising.

The Beggar Cat

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Wretched little beggar cat, hollow-eyed and gaunt,
Creeping down the alley-way like a ghost of want;
Kicked and beat by thoughtless boys, bent on cruel play—
What a sorry life you lead, whether night or day.

Hunting after crusts and crumbs, gnawing meatless bones,
Trembling at a human step, fearing bricks and stones;
Shrinking at an outstretched hand, knowing only blows—
Wretched little beggar cat, born to suffer woes.

Stealing to an open door, craving food and meat,
Frightened off with angry cries and broomed into the street;
Tortured, teased and chased by dogs through the lonely night—
Homeless little beggar cat, sorry is your plight.

Sleeping anywhere you can—in the rain or snow;
Waking in the cold, gray dawn, wondering where to go;
Dying in the street at last, starved to death at that;
Picked up by the scavenger—poor tramp cat!

SHE TELLS GIRLS TO CULTIVATE HEALTH; IT MEANS GOOD LOOKS AND GOOD SPIRITS

THE beauty of perfect health is a beauty that appeals to everyone.

Delicacy is out of fashion and the languishing, die-away belle is out of date.

In the olden days to have the blues ("vapors" they called it), and faint on the slightest pretext, was considered a part of every belle's education.

The modern maiden would scorn to faint, and she is, when she takes proper care of herself, much too healthy and happy to ever have the blues.

There is one dangerous menace to the health of the average girl which it is in her own power to fight against, and that is the amount of trash she eats.

It is chiefly at luncheon that she makes this mistake, as that is the meal where she is most tempted by pie, sandwiches, cake, etc.

This, of course, applies mostly to the great army of girls who work in offices, factories and shops, and are not able to go home in the middle of the day.

They go to quick lunch counters and instead of buying a bowl of nourishing soup, a glass of milk, cereal, or good bread and butter, they make their luncheon off pork and beans, heavy pie, soggy puddings and cake. Nearly everything costs the same price. So it is not a question of money.

The diet of soup, milk, etc., will make blood and give rosy complexions, bright eyes and a generally healthy appearance.

The pie diet will give pasty, flabby complexions, heavy eyes, and last, but by no means least, will make fat, and not a healthy fat at that.

Now, girls, which would you rather do, sacrifice your love of sweets and be pretty, or go on eating them and be plain?

If I were you I would choose the former, and then you will please yourselves and every one else.

I once heard a very attractive young man telling his sister the qualities he would look for in his future wife.

"First of all," said he, "she must be healthy and wholesome."

That man was simply expressing the sentiments of hundreds of other men.

Men are afraid to marry a delicate girl. She is apt to develop into a whining, fretful wife and mother, too much interested in her own ailments to pay attention to husband, children or home.

Some day I hope you will all be happy wives, and so I say to you, eat sensible meals, take all the exercise you can get.

Don't drink strong tea or coffee; both are bad for the complexion. You know my opinion on spirituous liquors, so we won't talk about that.

Men are queer creatures, you know, and while they demand perfect health in a wife, they also would like a little beauty thrown in.

So cultivate it with all your might and main and remember that health means happiness and happiness means beauty.

IS THIS THE PRETTIEST BABY IN BOSTON?

SADIE ROSENFIELD

HERE is published the photograph of another pretty baby, sent to the BOSTON AMERICAN in response to the suggestion published on this page that a contest to determine who is the prettiest baby in Boston would arouse interest even in excess of pictures to determine who is the prettiest woman in Boston.

Pictures of pretty babies, to be printed in this discussion, will be welcomed at this office. If the owners wish they will be returned, provided a request to that effect accompanies them and return postage is enclosed. Address pictures and any letters on the subject to the Baby Contest Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, 30 Summer street, Boston. Send along your prettiest little one's prettiest photographs. Who has the most charming baby?

Twenty-five Best WORKS of FICTION

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory

FOR the benefit of many interested readers, won't you kindly give us, through the AMERICAN, the names of twenty-five of the world's best works of fiction, in the order of their excellence, and so complete the excellent course of reading given some time ago.

Adams, Mass. EUGENIE GREGOIRE.

Assuming that our correspondent would exclude from the list all poetry, we proceed, with fear and trembling, to mention the twenty-five works of fiction which are, in our opinion, the "world's best":

"Don Quixote."—Cervantes.
"Les Miserables."—Victor Hugo.
"Tristram Shandy."—Sterne.
"The Vicar of Wakefield."—Goldsmith.
"Pilgrim's Progress."—Bunyan.
"Paul and Virginia."—St. Pierre.
"Robinson Crusoe."—De Foe.
"The Wandering Jew."—Eugene Sue.
"Gulliver's Travels."—Swift.
"Gil Blas."—Le Sage.
"Pride and Prejudice."—Austen.
"Ten Thousand a Year."—Warren
"Old Mortality."—Scott.
"Ivanhoe."—Scott.
"David Copperfield."—Dickens.
"Jane Eyre."—Charlotte Bronte.
"Daniel Deronda."—George Eliot.
"Vanity Fair."—Thackeray.
"On the Heights."—Auerbach.
"War and Peace."—Tolstoi.
"Last Days of Pompeii."—Bulwer.
"Le Pere Goriot."—Balzac.
"The Scarlet Letter."—Hawthorne.
"Ben-Hur."—Wallace.
"The Leopard's Spots."—Dixon.

It must be said that no attempt is made here to give these works in the "order of their excellence." We merely give, as they happen to come to us, the names of what we consider the twenty-five "best works of fiction in the world."

The "BOSTON AMERICAN" would be pleased to hear from its readers what they think of the list here given.

SHE DEPLORES ONE WOMAN'S CAREER—THAT OF RUNNING A GIRLS' SCHOOL OF BURGLARY

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner.

WOMEN are starting on many new careers, some to be commended, some to be regretted; but a lady burglars' school of crime certainly takes its place among the latter.

The enterprising woman who inaugurated this regrettable opening for women is Annie Morgan, and her history has been without parallel for many years.

Annie, who was known as "the lady burglar," and has been associated with several notable robberies, is a handsome woman of bereft thirty. On leaving school she became a dressmaker's apprentice, but she was not contented with so unambitious a career, and she left her firm in order to embark upon her first experience in crime.

She became an expert shoplifter and pickpocket, and by the money she earned she soon became possessed of a suburban villa in North London, elaborately furnished. A handsome carriage would drive up to the door, and she would often be seen, accompanied by one of her visitors, starting for her afternoon drive, her real object being to prospect for a house which could be broken into. It was her habit to place advertisements in the country papers for a good-looking girl as companion, and when she had secured her services she initiated her into her school of burglary.

Her conviction, however, was caused by her jealousy of one of her employes, who had attracted the attention of the man who had launched poor Annie on her regrettable career.

She gave information to the police which led to this man Mason's arrest, but in doing so she excited their suspicions, which ultimately led to her own downfall.

Among the many devices which this woman employed was a dummy wax hand, made to strap to her own, which gave her freedom to steal without suspicion, and a bag for receiving the stolen articles beneath her skirt.

There is something pitiful in the idea of a bright and beautiful woman exercising such ingenuity in so lamentable a manner.

LADY HENRY SOMERSET.

Advice to the LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

BREWBITE are printed answers by Beatrice Fairfax to some of those whose heart problems are so puzzling that they have come to her for advice. Letters to Miss Fairfax from women and men, maidens and youths are welcome. They will receive sympathetic attention and will be printed with accompanying answers on the Woman's Page of the BOSTON AMERICAN.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl of eighteen years, and am deeply in love with a young man one year my senior. We have been going together for the past six months, and seem to think a good deal of each other. Now do you think $12 a week is enough to marry on? Or would it be better to wait a couple of years, as he expects a better position? Another thing bothers me—I am a Catholic, while he is a Protestant, and folks say we will never be happy. As I am an orphan, I turn to you for advice.

BLUE BELL.

North Attleboro, Mass.

WHILE it would be possible to live on $12 a week, you are both young enough to wait the two years, and I think I would do so if I were you. He would be in a better position financially at the end of that period to take care of you. If you settle the question of religion thoroughly before marriage there is no reason why it should cause you any unhappiness or trouble.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am deeply in love with a charming lady, who is as beautiful as she is vivacious, but being twelve years her senior, fear she does not reciprocate my affection.

I am thirty years of age, and considered handsome. Kindly advise about my proposing and my chances of success. I regret that the young lady seems to be trifling with my affections.

"JEALOUS H. M."

Providence, R. I.

IF you are sure the young lady is merely amusing herself, I should not waste any more time with her. She is very much in love with her own mind anyway, and even if she does care for you, I think your chances of success would be small. You are too young to wait a few years and not be too attentive in the meanwhile.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young girl seventeen years old and am deeply in love with a young man of twenty-seven, who is much admired by all who know him. He seems to love me very much and has asked me to marry him.

My parents do not like him and do not want me to marry him. His, on the contrary, are very fond of him and are very anxious that we should marry.

Do you think I ought to do as my parents wish, when I love him with all my heart?

Providence, R. I. MAUD E.

YOU are very young to think of marrying, and possibly this is the chief objection your parents have. I do not think you should insist on your marrying him now, as you are hardly old enough to know your own mind, and if you wait a few years you may gain the consent of your parents.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man nearly twenty-one, and am keeping company with a young lady of nineteen. We have been sweethearts for one year and we love each other dearly. Now the point is: We are neighbors. Her parents and my parents are very friendly, but they strongly object to our keeping company. Not long ago my father gave me a large amount of money, having my promise that I would not see her again. But I did not keep my promise; so, on finding I had lied to him, he told me he would send me from the house. Now, shall I give him back his money and leave home? Please help me. I cannot give her up, for I love her better than my life. C. C. M.

IF you accepted the money from your father with the understanding that you were to give up the young lady you certainly cannot expect to keep the money unless you live up to your part of the agreement. I think you had better analyze your feelings very carefully, however, before you take any step one way or the other.

Straightening a Tangle

Boston American Daily Short Story

By Earle Ashley Walcott

(Copyright, 1904, by American-Journal-Examiner. Great Britain Rights Reserved.)

"OH, Patsy, I'm so glad you've come," cried Ellen.

"I don't doubt it, my dear," said Patricia, settling her small self in the big chair and giving her hat an audacious tilt, under the guidance of the mirror opposite. "What's the trouble now? I can see with half an eye that you're dying to tell me about it."

"It isn't mine. It's Lena Webster's, and it's a horrid story."

"Then I don't believe a word of it," said Patricia aggressively.

"Patsy, you're a little heathen, and it would serve you right if I shouldn't tell you another word. But never mind. I'm in a forgiving mood this afternoon. Now —you know Lena Webster's mother?"

"No-no. Has she another aunt?"

"Oh, how stupid you are to-day. I mean the aunt that died."

"Well, what do you think? They've found out that she didn't leave a cent."

"Mercy! You don't mean it! What had she been making all that show on?"

"Well, you remember everybody ever knew just what property she had. Some said city buildings and some said government bonds, but all they knew was that she had a good income. Lena Webster was bonting about to find out about it, but he never could."

"If I had wanted to know it wouldn't have taken me long to find out," said Patricia.

"I don't doubt it, Patsy, dear; but they never thought of inquiring to you. So the family had a fit when they found out that the rich aunt had put everything into an annuity that died with her."

"Poor Lena!" sighed Patricia. "But still she'll be very comfortable when the marries Charley Merrill."

"Oh, but that's the worst of it," cried Ellen. "When Charley Merrill heard of it he broke off the engagement."

Patricia sat down with a meditative air. Then she gave herself a shake.

"I don't believe Charles Merrill knows a thing about it," she said with decision. "I saw him at the Ridgelows' yesterday, and he talked about life's nowings, and said he was going to the Philippines."

"Yes, he was engaged," said Ellen. "He's downstairs now. Oh, Patsy, please go down and entertain him while I change my dress."

A minute later, Patricia, chic, smiling and electric with energy, sailed into the reception room with inward quakings and outward signs of a supreme self-confidence.

"It's very rude to look so surprised," was her attack on the young man who rose at her entrance. "I'm a substitute, I know, but I have feelings. Ellen will be down directly."

"I accept the substitute with a thankful heart," said Mr. Merrill, rising gallantly to the occasion.

"Very well done, Charley," said Patricia, with an approving nod.

"I've come to say good-by," he said ruefully. "I suppose you'll take this for a call on you, too."

"Oh, very well, if you're anxious to save time," said Patricia thereby.

"But I didn't mean that," said the young man. "Don't get offended, Patsy. I'm in such a state of mind that I'm not more than half responsible for what I'm saying."

"Well," said Patricia primly, "if you want to be forgiven, you'll have to make a sister of me."

"If you'd like to refuse me, consider it done," said the young man with a melancholy smile.

"Don't be nonsensical, Charley," said Patricia, "and I'll tell you a story."

"Fire away," said the young man, with a resigned but mystified air.

"Once upon a time there was a girl," began Patricia slowly.

"That was delightful," sighed the young man.

"So she was," said Patricia; "but you're not to interrupt. Keep quiet, please. She was counted a most fortunate young person; for not only did she embody all the graces, but she had a rich aunt who was going to leave her oceans of money, and she was engaged to marry a handsome young man—at least, she thought he was handsome. Then one day her rich aunt died, and it was found that she was a hollow fraud, for the handsome fortune was an annuity that died with her. Less misfortunes didn't come single. Her lover jilted her, and 'tis said that it was because the aunt's fortune turned out to be a ghost—"

"Who says that?" demanded the young man, fiercely.

But Patricia continued calmly, without noticing the interruption, "and the girl weeped her eyes out at the deceptions of womenkind and the perfidy of man."

"Who says that?" repeated the young man, still more fiercely.

"Gently, Charley, gently," said Patricia. "Don't disturb the neighbors. And now I want you to take me for a sister, and tell me what parted the handsome young man and the beautiful maiden—and then I'll tell you the end of the story."

"Hang it, Patsy; if you knew what she said to me—"

"Well," said Patricia, giving herself a determined shake, "I don't know; but whatever it was, she meant nothing of the sort."

"Do you think she would see me if I went up there?" he asked, doubtfully.

"What a helpless goose a man is!" cried Patricia. "Of course she would, if she has any eyes left."

The young man rose excitedly.

"Stop, if it's true I'll—I'll——" And he danced toward her with outspread arms.

"Charley Merrill, don't you dare touch me," cried Patricia, in a panic.

"Well, you'll be bridesmaid, and it'll be the groom's privilege to kiss you then. Goodby, Patsy. You're a brick. And, seeing his hat, the young man ran out of the house.

Ten minutes later Ellen entered the reception room to find Patricia demurely studying the toes of her shoes.

"Why, cried Ellen, "I thought Charley Merrill was here."

"Oh," said Patricia, with a quiet smile, "he's changed his mind. He came for a farewell call, but he isn't going away, so there was no need to make it."

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN

Ladies' Dressing Sack

The kimona has become almost as indispensable as the shirt waist, especially during this season. Every woman knows the comfort of these garments, and they are now so that they are quickly made. The newest dressing sacks are made to follow closely the lines of the fashionable gown. Thus we have the long circular flounce, which in this instance is particularly charming, as the upper part of the garment is of the yoke and so shoulder seam is necessary.

The sleeve has a seam down the centre, thus forming a gore fit at the shoulder and a good flare at the lower edge. The pattern is very simple, and four pieces fit the pattern. When it is made up as illustrated it becomes a most desirable garment as well as a most comfortable one. Lawn, batiste, challie and sateens are preferred materials.

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN will mail a pattern of the above on receipt of 10 cents to cover all cost of handling.

All orders should be directed to HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN PATTERN DEPT., P. O. Box 2324, Boston, Mass.

Sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

'ISLE OF SPICE' SEASON WILL BE EXTENDED

Theatres Now Drawing Largest Audiences So Far This Summer.

PARKS WELL PATRONIZED

"Woodland" is still a potent attraction at the Tremont Theatre, and the pretty opera is having one of the most prosperous runs that any Summer offering has ever enjoyed at this house. It is a very attractive show and hits the popular taste admirably. The music is tuneful, the girls are pretty and graceful, and the fun is abundant and clean. "Woodland" will remain here three weeks more.

GLOBE THEATRE—The stay of "The Isle of Spice" at the Globe Theatre is to be extended on account of the great increase of interest in the production since the infusion of new blood into the cast, which has decidedly strengthened the performance. The one hundredth presentation will be given next Tuesday evening, and appropriate souvenirs will be presented to the ladies in the audience on that occasion.

KEITH'S THEATRE—Rose Stahl, in "The Chorus Lady," has scored one of the biggest hits ever made at Keith's Theatre. Her performance is exceedingly clever and entitles her to high rank as a character actress, while the play in which she appears is very enjoyable. The Fadettes continue as popular as ever, and the other features of the bill this week are excellent.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—"A Parisian Romance" is proving very popular with the patrons of the Castle Square Theatre, and the performance of the part of Baron Cherrial by William Humphrey is greatly increased interest in which this actor is held by local theatregoers. The play is an interesting one and is well presented. "Hazel Kirke" is announced for next week.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE—Two special performances of "The Wages of Sin" are given at the Bowdoin Square theatre to-day for the benefit of Corlane Cantwell and Florence Italie of the stock company. "The Colleen Bawn" will be given for the remainder of the week, and next week "Rip Van Winkle" will be presented, with Jay Rial in the title role.

PALACE THEATRE—The show at the Palace Theatre this week is furnished by the London Gaiety Girls, and constitutes a good vaudeville attraction. They present a farce and a burlesque, both of which are amusing, and the olio includes some decidedly clever entertainers.

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM—The Spanish Troubadours are the latest to be the hits of the year at Austin & Stone's Museum, and their concerts are a great deal of pleasure to the patrons of this resort. In addition there are a number of interesting features and a good vaudeville programme.

NICKELODEON—A good bill of attractions is installed at the Nickelodeon this week, and frequenters of this resort are finding much to their taste. All the pictures in the cario hall are interesting, and there is something going on all the time in the theatre.

THE OUTDOOR SHOWS.

NORUMBEGA PARK—The big new open-air theatre continues to be the chief attraction of Norumbega Park, and it is much also to enjoy as well. In its natural features the park is one of the most attractive in the country, and what has been done to add to these advantages. The bill in the theatre this week is one of the best of the season.

POINT OF PINES—Only a few days remain of the children's festival at the Point of Pines. Each child on entering the grounds is given an envelope containing a ticket to the performance in the rustic theatre and one for the many amusements within the grounds. The Pines Opera Company is offering a very creditable performance of "Fra Diavolo" this week.

LEXINGTON PARK—The popularity of Lexington Park is still on the increase, and the crowds grow larger every week. There are many features connected with this park that are peculiarly its own and which make it very attractive. The concerts by Sellie S. Chandler's ladies' orchestra are popular, and there is an excellent vaudeville show in the theatre.

CRESCENT GARDENS — Those in search of warm weather comfort and amusement find much to their liking at Crescent Gardens, Revere Beach. The rustic theatre is open to the breezes, and the programme consists of an entertaining farce and a burlesque of the popular order.

NOTED SCHOLAR SAYS DOGS HAVE SOULS!

American Readers Showing an Absorbing Interest in the Novelist's Question.

Questions Raised by Rider Haggard's Dream

Do dogs have souls?

If they do, is it possible for a dog's soul to speak to human beings' consciousness through telepathy?

May the dog's consciousness be transposed, either asleep or awake, to the body of the lower animals, if the bond of love and respect has been established?

Does the soul, animal or human, ever linger near the earth and communicate with other souls after leaving the physical body?

Can there be telepathic communication between the consciousness of a person or animal rendered unconscious from injury or otherwise?

Has a dog a soul?

If you have never thought of that, read the story of H. Rider Haggard's weird "Dog Dream."

Then write your ideas on the matter to the BOSTON AMERICAN. A lively discussion is now on in regard to the Haggard "Dog Dream" and the psychic questions it raises. Many letters have already been received by the BOSTON AMERICAN since the discussion began yesterday.

The "Dog Dream" was published yesterday, with the invitation to BOSTON AMERICAN readers to send in their opinions. Many have written. The opinions are varied. The question is one requiring intelligent thought, yet not so obstruse that a person of ordinary intellect cannot develop independent ideas about it.

Dr. Richard Hodgson, of this city, a famous English psychologist, and secretary of the American branch of the Society for Psychical Research, was greatly interested in the "Dog Dream" story by Haggard.

Haggard, in writing of his experience, said that, following a terrible nightmare, he had a vivid vision. There was an awful oppression on his mind as of a terrific presence of life. Then he saw a dog retriever, "Bob," to whom he was intensely attached, dying by a stream.

Then his own personality seemed vising from the dog, the head was against it, raised head of the animal, which was trying to speak to him. Failing to speak, the dog transmitted to his mind in an undefined fashion the knowledge that it was dying.

The dog, Haggard learned, was killed three hours before the dream.

"I confess that I am forced to explain it by telepathy," said Haggard, in an interview at London. "The dog, or its soul, seemed to call my attention to its actual or recent plight by placing whatever portion of my mind was capable of receiving impulses when enchained by sleep into its own favorite station.

Dr. Hodgson's Views.

Dr. Hodgson says "This dream of Mr. Haggard certainly was a remarkable one. The dream may have been coincidence. I am not prepared to say positively that it was, however. Mr. Haggard's explanations of the phenomenon are possible, but there is one which I think more probable than any that he gives.

"Mr. Haggard fell into a natural sleep and then his higher self, or what we call his spiritual self, naturally came into association to his beloved dog. We have had cases of this nature before.

"This explanation does away with the necessity of attributing to the dog any powers of comprehending thoughts to the souls of humans by telepathy.

Lower Animals Have Souls.

"I have no doubt, in my own mind, that dogs have souls as well as human beings. We are convinced that the lower animals have mind-pictures of things and events as well as human beings. There is, however, some doubt as to their power to communicate these pictures to human beings by telepathy.

"It is probable that the dog, at the time of the accident, had a mental picture of the train running over him. It is quite possible that these mental pictures were transferred to Mr. Haggard's mind in some peculiar way.

"The statement that Mr. Haggard makes, to the effect that he did not know that the dog was lost until the night after he had the dream, is very valuable in inquiring into the phenomenon.

Case of Clairvoyance.

"If Mr. Haggard had known that the dog was lost on Saturday night, before he retired, being very fond of the animal, as he says he was, it would have been only natural for him to have been a little troubled over the fate of the dog. When he went to sleep he might have had the thought of the dog on his mind, and this have induced a dream in which he saw the animal killed and mangled by a railroad train. In this case, the dream could have been accounted for in the ordinary way.

"But the lack of knowledge of the loss of the dog makes the case one of clairvoyance, in which, I think, the subliminal self witnessed the very accident to the dog.

"I had myself a little experiment in which a dog figured several years ago, with a medium. Back in Australia there was a little dog, belonging to some friends of mine, to whom I was much attached. In the seance, the medium described the dog very accurately, and got very near the name, and claimed the dog was trying to put itself in communication with me, trying to express to me its affection.

THINKS DOGS HAVE SOULS.

Found Dream True.

"An incident which we investigated, which goes to show the supernormal power of a human being to perceive things happening at some distance, was the following: A gentleman, living in the country, had a dream one night in which he saw a statue of which he thought a good deal completely decapitated. On the next morning the gentleman dressed and went out into his garden. He remembered the nature of his dream of the night before, and took his way to that part of the grounds where the statue in question stood. It was surrounded by trees and completely hidden from the house, so that he could not have seen it from his windows.

"When he came upon the statue, there was the head lying on the ground some feet away from the base of the statue. During the night there had been a storm, and the statue had been decapitated.

"That was an instance in which the man's subliminal self had witnessed and witnessed the accident which happened to this favorite statue.

"Rider Haggard's dream, it seems to me, would be explained most plausibly in the same way."

THE CHAPERON ON SOCIETY

Miss Helen Brooks's Engagement to Dwight Davis, Tennis Player, of Long Standing.

WEDDING TO BE IN LONCON

By the Chaperon.

THE engagement of Miss Helen Brooks to Dwight Davis, the well-known tennis player, which has just been announced, has been in existence for some time. Miss Brooks sailed for Europe in June some four years ago when she was there studying. They have since then seen a great deal of each other.

The wedding will not take place in Boston, but will be quietly celebrated in London within the next six weeks. This will be a great disappointment to many Boston friends of the couple.

Miss Louise A. Benedict has announced her engagement to Clifford B. Harmon, of New York. Miss Benedict is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Benedict, and she is at present at Indian Harbor, N. Y., with her parents. She is the younger of two daughters.

Mr. Harmon is ten years older than his fiancee, and has been called a confirmed bachelor by his friends. The news of his engagement is the talk of the intimates like a thunderbolt, and he has been the recipient of numerous telegrams of congratulation.

The wedding will take place in the Autumn and will be very quiet, owing to the poor health of Mrs. Benedict.

Bishop Potter and Mrs. Potter are to sail for Europe early in October. They are to go to Liverpool, and will take a short trip through England. The first part of the Winter they will spend in Southern France. They will be home in time for the Christmas holidays.

The engagement of Eugenia Le Messurier Hutchinson, daughter of Judge Freeman Hutchinson, to Lieutenant Coote, of the British Navy, and a son of Sir Algernon Charles Coote, premier baronet of England, which has just been announced, from London, where the Hutchinsons are at present, comes as a surprise to Boston society. Miss Hutchinson is but eighteen years old and is now in a private school in Germany. She had two or three years more of her school course abroad to complete, which she has decided to give up to become the wife of an English officer.

The Boston colony at Newport has been augmented by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Miss Marion Peabody. They are both guests of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, and will remain over for the dinner which Mrs. Astor is to give on Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lyman Cabb and daughter have gone to Ocean Point, Boothbay, Me. They are to be gone for only two weeks.

The health of Captain J. C. R. Peabody has been much improved by his trip to the Adirondacks and he and his wife have returned.

Dancing is quite popular at the North Shore. The first concert and dance of the Manchester Yacht Club was attended by the usual exclusives set at the shore. Almost everybody is planning to take in the Saturday night dinner dances at the Essex County Club.

Miss Constance Bacon, the youngest daughter of Mrs. William Bacon, who has been her home at Pride's Crossing, and Whitney, has sailed for Europe with the Richard Greenleafs, of Lenox. She will return early in the Fall.

VANDERBILTS GIVE PICNIC

Newport Children Having a Happy Time at Southwick Grove To-day.

BY TROLLEY TO BRISTOL

Special to the Boston American.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 28.—Washington Square was gay with white-gowned, blue-ribboned children and their marshalling elders this morning, when Mrs. Alfred Vanderbilt's guests from the Thames Street Methodist Church assembled for their third annual picnic.

There were children of all ages, from the white-capped babe in arms, who surveyed the scene in wondering, wide-eyed silence to the lanky boys and girls, almost grown up. Besides there were teachers and parents, all armed with fresh handkerchiefs and boxes, and sharing equally in the enthusiasm. The busiest and happiest person in the crowd was Captain F. G. Garnett, of the Newport police force, who acted as general supervisor.

Shortly before the special trolley cars started for the trip to Bristol Ferry, Captain Garnett marshalled the scene, provided with gay flags with which to deck the cars. A chorus of greetings greeted him. Everybody was on hand to ask the privilege of being a color-bearer.

"Let me carry the flag, Captain." "No, I am going to sit on the front seat." "I'll sing, Mamma could wave good by." shouted the boys. Captain Garnett held the flags high, haughtily disregarded the appeals for cheaps, and decided in favor of twine, the only substance handy for tying them to the trolley poles and along the sides and end of the cars. The cars started with a great shrill "Good byes" and a fluttering of handkerchiefs.

It is to be a great day. After the trolley ride to Bristol Ferry, the party will be back to Southwicks Grove where Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt will run out in their automobile and sandy for Farm, and preside at their 800 guests. There will be music and dancing, and games and quoits and cakes and bonbons, and not one of the party will enjoy the day more thoroughly than the hostess, who confessed the other day that she was looking forward to the picnic with an almost childish pleasure."

HORSE CLIMBS 2 STAIR FLIGHTS

Rushes Into Stitching Room and Creates Panic Among Girl Employes.

STOPS WORK FOR AN HOUR

When boys on Haverhill street told James Merlihan that the horse for which he was looking had gone up stairs into the factory of the Hope Collar Company he told them that joke was a cheap one, and went on with his search in other directions. Those same youngsters, with reputations for veracity well established, grinned and leered at Merlihan as he and fourteen other men pulled and hauled on block and tackle for an hour, getting the 1,400-pound animal from the third story of the factory to the street. Meanwhile there had been a panic among the young women who work on the third floor of the factory and a loss of an hour of working time.

When the girls who run the stitching machines on the top floor heard the horse coming and felt the vibration of floor from his weight they thought the walls were about to collapse. When the horse ambled in among them and ran up and down between two rows of machines, kicking and neighing, they quit thinking and took it all out in screaming. The horse was caught by a male employe.

DRESSED HAND 2,000 TIMES; WANTS $2,000

Claiming that she dressed the cancer-ridden hand of the late George Sherman, of Medford, 2,000 times, Margaret L. Graves, of Arlington, has filed suit against the Sherman estate for $2,000. The compensation of $1 a dressing was agreed upon between her and the late Mr. Sherman, Miss Graves says, and though she duly attended the man twice she has never received any payment.

The suit, which has been filed in the Essex county court, is against Wilfred E. Hutchings, executor of the Sherman will.

SLEEPING VOLCANOES

A thin, vapory smoke, lazily ascending from its crater, may be the only visible sign of life in the sleeping volcano; but within is a raging sea of fire, molten rock and sulphurous gases. Those who make their homes in the peaceful valleys below know the dangers that lurk and frequently warned by the rumblings and quakings, these signs of impending eruption go unheeded. They are living in fancied security, when the giant awakes with deafening roars, and they are lost beneath a downpour of heated rock and scalding ashes. Thousands of blood poison sufferers are living upon a sleeping volcano, and are taking desperate chances, for under the mercury and potash treatment the external symptoms of the disease disappear, and the deluded victim is happy in the belief of a complete cure; but the fires of contagion have only been smothered in the system, and as soon as these mineral are left off will blaze up again. Occasional sores break out in the mouth, a red rash appears on the body, and these warning symptoms, if not heeded, are soon followed by fearful eruptions, sores, copper-colored splotches, swollen glands, loss of hair and other sickening symptoms. Mercury and potash not only fail to cure blood poison, but cause mercurial Rheumatism, necrosis of the bones, offensive ulcers and inflammation of the stomach and bowels. The use of S. S. S. is never followed by any such bad results. It cures without the slightest injury to the system. We offer $1,000 for proof that it contains a mineral of any description. S. S. S. is an antidote for contagious blood poison, it destroys every atom of the virus and purifies and strengthens the blood and builds up the general health.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES LABOR COUNCIL 96 BOSTON, MASS.

BOSTON teamsters deny that any order has been received from President Shea of the international union calling out the men employed by Standard Trust concerns in this city. The officials of the Teamsters' District Council say that a strike could only be declared after a vote by the union favoring such action had been taken.

The story of the likelihood of a strike in Boston originated in Chicago, where the packers are on strike at the Meat Trust stockyards. The dispatch to this city stated that the order of a strike came from President Shea in Chicago. It is not expected that a strike will be called here.

ADVOCATES HIGH DUES.

High dues for labor unions are being advocated by James Wilson, of New York, president of the Pattern Makers' Union. In an address to the members of the Boston local at No. 724 Washington street last night he said that it was the only proper beneficial protection to the members in time of a strike. President Wilson cited the Fall River strike as an example of the need of such action by the unions. It was the only salvation for American labor from being crushed by the brutal forces of capital, he said.

SAYS HE DIDN'T FIGHT.

Presidnet William J. Cunningham, of the Somerville Tube Workers' Union, the members of which are on strike, denies that he took any part in the fight of Monday night, when John Moran was placed under arrest for disturbing the peace. He claims he only remonstrated with the police. He went to court the next morning to learn the disposition of the case, when he heard his own name called. He was charged with disturbing the peace and the trial set for August 1.

COAL STRIKE THREATENS.

The most serious rupture between the Pennsylvania miners and the operators since the strike of 1902 has occurred at Wilkesbarre. To-day 70,000 men are awaiting the word to strike. The operators and the district presidents could not come to an agreement to reopen the decision of Umpire Carroll D. Wright on the check weight case. This case the miners insisted upon. The district presidents refusing to agree, the operators left the Conciliation Board meeting.

The contention of the miners is that the award that the operators have evaded for fifteen months is perfectly clear, and the interpretation of Umpire Wright's award is even more clear, and his decision is final. The enforcement of the award will now insure the men honest weighing and honest docking.

CARPENTERS QUIT AGAIN.

The strike of the carpenters employed on the Bridgeport Comb. Building Company has been renewed. The men returned to work pending arbitration. The joint board of the International Union and the Carpenters' Union failed to agree on several questions. The men will now remain out until their demands are conceded by the company.

TO JOIN A. F. OF L.

At the meeting of Laundry Drivers' Union No. 650 ten new members were elected. The union decided to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor. The monthly business for August was distributed.

DENOUNCE GENERAL BELL.

A protest aimed particularly at Adjutant-General Bell, of Colorado, has been passed by the Boston branch of the Atlantic Coast Seamen's Union, whose members denounce the Colorado military for usurpation of civil authority in the miners' strike.

Copies of the denunciatory resolutions will be forwarded to Adjutant-General Bell and Governor Peabody, of Colorado, President Roosevelt, the Western Federation of Miners and the press.

STRIKE OVER CARFARE.

Forty men are on strike to-day at the shop of Ingalls & Kendricken, where the Steamfitters and Helpers' Union have a grievance. The firm refused to agree to pay the carfare of the men to and from their work, which is a mile or more out. A number of men have been on strike for a week at the shop of Burkell & Co. for the same reason. The firm is making a big fight on this issue.

Strike headquarters have been established at 18 Kneeland street. There will be a special meeting of the union on Monday night.

Banquet for Delegates.

News Driver's Union held a short business meeting last night in Enterprise Hall, Washington street. After routine business the odor was given up to the entertainment committee. A farewell banquet was tendered to Mr. Julius Winer, the delegate of the local to Cincinnati. Addresses were delivered by Mr. Frank Faul and Mr. Duffee, both prominent labor men. After the banquet an entertainment was held. Mr. Henry White, the tenor of the Lyric Club, sang two solos, and the brothers Walker did a Hebrew turn.

LABOR NOTES.

Glass Workers' Union 30 held a smoke talk last evening in celebration of the success of the organization, especially in Cambridge. Members will be initiated Thursday night at a special meeting. Last night Secretary Lee Hall, of Cambridge, read a letter from Secretary Hall, of Glassworkers' No. 28, and Gustave Theiss, of New York, general organizer of the Glass workers' International Association of America.

Two members were added to the Printing and Moulding Workers' Union last evening. Installation will be held at the first meeting in August.

The sum of $10 has been donated by Floor Layers' Union to the striking miners of Colorado.

John J. Tobin, State president of the Retail Clerks' Union, is to be married to Miss Henrietta Mahoney, of Roxbury, August 3.

How About Those Government Lands in the Philippines?

Is There Any Particular Reason for Giving Them Away or Renting Them to Favorites

The United States Government in the Philippine Islands has a serious problem on its hands. The friars there owned a great deal of land—nearly half a million acres—and there was constant danger of trouble. The natives had rebelled against the friars, had killed many and wanted to confiscate their lands.

The United States Government sent an ambassador to the Pope to discuss the matter, and finally the United States Government bought the Philippine lands from the Catholic Church at a cost of seven and a quarter millions of dollars.

The Government of the United States, which means the people of the United States, now owns these lands in the Philippines. It is proposed to sell the lands—or, since it would probably be impossible at present to get the price paid for them, to rent them out to certain concessionaires, with option of purchase.

In other words, the Government intends to get rid of this great tract of land in the usual mercantile way.

Why would it not be a good idea to try something NEW out in that new territory?

Why not indulge in a mild experiment of quasi paternalism?

Of course the gentlemen who want to get these Government lands for themselves as cheaply as possible, and then sell or rent them to settlers as dearly as possible, would roar anarchy, socialism, the decay of all national morality.

But is it always necessary to listen to those who roar when they are not allowed to swindle the Government? Why would it not be a good thing for the Government to keep possession of these lands, to rent them for stated terms of years to the highest bidder on condition that the bidders should actually INHABIT and CULTIVATE them?

In this way, people that want to work could get land to work on, and aid in the development of the Philippines. The unearned increment which will soon spring up there would go to the United States Government—that is to say, to the whole people—instead of going to a few speculators.

Since the Government now owns the lands, it would certainly do no harm to keep them. Those who ordinarily and quite sensibly cry out against the single tax when it is urged as a measure of confiscation could not object to the Government receiving the rents in the usual way for land that it actually owns. The people have bought this land and paid a good price for it—why can't they keep it?

The possibilities of getting valuable farms or plantations from the Government at a reasonable rental ought to stimulate the immigration of whites necessary to Philippine development. It should also appeal to the natives and interest them in a government sensible, just and generous.

Of course this is only a suggestion. The lands which the people bought from the friars for seven and a half million dollars will undoubtedly go into the hands of private individuals for little or nothing, and later on those who would gladly cultivate the lands and add to the world's food supply will have to pay a prohibitive price and fatten the purses of idle speculators, in the same old way.

The Negro as a "Strike-Breaker"

There Is Very Serious Menace in This Feature of the Race Question

It is known that for some years the pork packers of Chicago and other large employers of labor throughout the country have planned to make themselves independent of white union labor with the aid of negroes.

The negro is more docile than the white in accepting low wages and long hours.

He is less competent, usually, in labor requiring skill. But his OBEDIENCE and lack of capacity for organization make him useful. The employers feel that he sets a good example to the other men, and that white union labor can be kept in check with the negro's assistance.

We do not purpose here to discuss any ethical question.

We simply want to call the attention of big employers to the danger TO THEMSELVES involved in this method of labor warfare.

It is announced that young Mr. Leiter, who has locked out all of the miners from a mining town owned by him, building a stockade around the town, now proposes to replace the whites with negroes.

On Sunday, in St. Joseph, Mo., five white men were shot by a negro strike-breaker—three were fatally wounded.

It is hardly necessary to point out the probable results that must follow any systematic effort to fight white workmen with the aid of negroes.

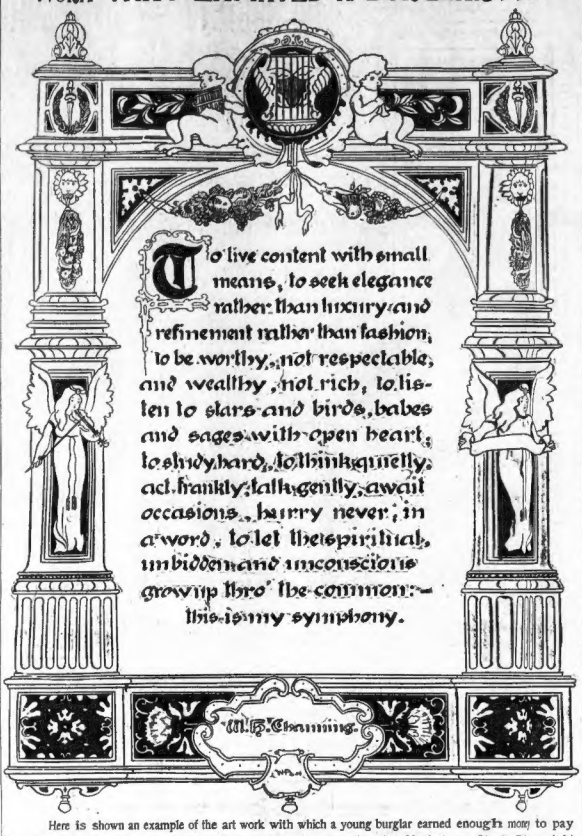
Chinese riots in the West, as well as the draft riots in New York City, tell us only too plainly what will happen if the struggle for wages and employment is complicated with a race question.

The big employers—the trusts and others—that look to the negro now as a means of keeping down wages or breaking up strikes should look thoughtfully ahead.

If they are able to forecast results intelligently, they will hesitate to begin a race conflict that may mean to them a serious disaster in property, as it must mean serious loss of life to others.

It is bad enough to revive race feeling in any way. It will be absolutely fatal to peaceful and friendly development of the races if the negro is used systematically as the trusts are beginning to use him.

WORK THAT EXPIATED A BURGLAR'S SIN



To live content with small means, to seek elegance rather than luxury and refinement rather than fashion, to be worthy, not respectable, and wealthy, not rich, to listen to stars and birds, babes and sages with open heart, to study hard, to think quietly, act frankly, talk gently, await occasions, hurry never; in a word, to let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious grow up thro' the common:—this is my symphony.
W. E. Channing.

Here is shown an example of the art work with which a young burglar earned enough money to pay back the value of what he stole. William H. Peterhans was sentenced to the Charlestown State Prison eight years ago at the age of twenty. He is a free man to-day. He would not seek a pardon. He was bent on expiating his crime. By means of the craft, which he learned in prison, he paid his victims in full. That is something good in every human being, if it can be reached and developed.

By the Stenographer

SHE DEVISES A TROUBLE EXCHANGE BUT CONCLUDES IT WOULD NOT WORK

"I'VE got a scheme," said the Stenographer, "that's going to put Mr. Rockefeller into the piker class and make Standard Oil look like Ship Building Busted."

"Let me in on the ground floor," replied the Bookkeeper. "But what's your lay?"

"I'm going to start a Trouble Exchange," declared the Stenographer, "a place where you can take the particular grouch that gets on your nerves and soars you against the world and trade it off for some nice little worry that you wouldn't mind bearing a little bit."

"It's a dandy idea," said the Bookkeeper.

"It is that," assented the Stenographer. "Did you ever notice that what troubles us is that each one of us has got the particular kind of trouble that gets us on the raw? Now yesterday I met up with a rich old woman who was a bundle of bones and nerves and dyspepsia, tied up in silk and lace and strung with diamonds, and she told me how foolish it was to worry about being poor, and how happy she would be in a thirty-nine-cent shirt waist if she could only tuck away a good feed in it, and all the time she was talking I was giving her the happy hoot in my mind and thinking what a time I would be having if I had money to burn and nothing to worry me but a few nerves and the fear of a pain in my rathskeller."

"I guess we are all pretty heroic when it comes to bearing our friends' misfortune," observed the Bookkeeper.

"That's just it," said the Stenographer; "we never look at anybody else without thinking what a noble example of patience and Christian courage under affliction we could give if we had nothing to bear but the measley little trouble that they are making such a howl over.

"Of course, we are putting up the same sort of a scream about our own particular assortment of aggravation; but that's because our troubles are the very sort of troubles that get on our nerves most, and that we never could abide anyway. Now, why shouldn't people be able to trade off the sorrow they can't bear for the one that they wouldn't mind bearing? You'd swap off your next morning headache, so to speak, for a nice, ornamental attack of gout, that it would be an actual pleasure to tote around."

"It would be all to the good," sighed the Bookkeeper.

"Sure," replied the Stenographer. "Just take matrimony, for instance. Half of the women in the world are perfectly miserable because they are married, and the other half are utterly wretched because they are not married. Wouldn't it be perfectly lovely if the woman who is shedding great gobs of tears over a husband who is out playing poker with the boys and opening bottles for chorus girls, could exchange her secret sorrow for the heart hunger of the old maid, who goes around doping out the misery to herself because she has missed her affinity and has nobody to love?

"Then there is the blighted-genius female, with a good husband, and home and children for hers, who's afflicted with acute melancholy because she pines for a career and can't get it.

"Isn't it a pity she can't trade off her yearning for fame for the yearnings for

"I read in the papers yesterday," sa the Bookkeeper, "about a young man wh had barrels of money, good health an good prospects, but who killed himse because the girl he loved jilted him."

"Yes," replied the Stenographer; "an yet when I called the attention of a ma who was walking the floor because h backed the wrong side of the stock ma ket to that incident, he said that th young man was a fool—that there wer plenty of girls, and that the only thin that justified a man in hiking out ov the suicide route was the loss of mone All might have been well if only one ma could have exchanged his broken hear for the other one's busted pocketbook."

"I don't believe people would chang their troubles if they could," said th Bookkeeper.

"Maybe not," agreed the Stenographe "but if they wouldn't they ought to qu complaining about them."

Star Performers

By R. G. Butler

DIAB-BE-LO, who loops the loop, is all right in his way,
An' t'other chap, who jumps the gap, is mighty fine, they say;
But of all the circus people I've saw in all my life,
The biggest stunts is done by two—A-e-rio an' his wife!

You've saw the feller on a bike who throws away the frame
An' then kicks out the wheel in front, but rides on just the same?
A-e-rio an' his wife, I swan, can beat that feller fair—
They throw aside their tandem, an' keep ridin' through the air!

An' thet ain't all I seen 'em do—they're great, by gum, they are;
They do the giant swing 'ithout no horizontal bar;
An' then they do a brother act 'ithout no real trapeze,
An' swing an' turn their summersets as pretty as you please!

An then they climb up to the roof—this ain't no dream of dope—
An' do a thrillin' stride for life 'ithout the regular rope!
Oh, of all the circus people I see in all my life,
There's none can touch thet couple—A-e-rio an' his wife!

Little Editorials from the People

LIKES "E. Z. MARK" BETTER THAN "KNOCKO."

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I fully agree with Irving G. Ellsworth, Dorchesterey in regard to "Knocko, the Monk." Not only are they "idiotic and sickening," but lack humor, and are badly drawn. Give us some more of "E. Z. Mark," and not waste your space in such foolish things as "Knocko."

Gloucester, Mass. T. E. ARNOLD.

SEES MANY "KNOCKOS" EVERY DAY

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

I read Mr. Irving G. Ellsworth's criticism on "Knocko the Monk," and it made me laugh almost as much as the cartoons themselves. I am a business man and am down town every day, and, of course, see a great many people, and I recognise "Knocko" among them every day of my life. In fact, wherever you go, whether to church or the circus, any one with his eyes open may see him. Your "Knocko" is true to life. Can it be that the reason why Mr. Ellsworth objects to him is because he is so natural? You know the old saying, "A bit bird always flies first." I hope to hear what others think of "Knocko."

Back Bay, Boston. H. A. BENSON.

HINTS FOR BOTH PARKER AND ROOSEVELT

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

All other issues are insignificant beside these:

1. Define minutely and promise aid to honest corporate or private enterprise which respects competition, faithful laborers, fair prices and public weal.

2. Define minutely and promise war upon selfish monopoly in business, either by capitalists or wage-earners, upon increased prices and all influences tending to make dearer the necessaries of life.

3. Remember, the President represents only the consumers, that is, all of us! He should fight their fight against the greed of all producers. Whoever of you shall give promise best to help the masses that now suffer from makers of higher prices shall win!

Boston. CHARLES W. EMILY.
